. . . This is the most! Absolutely! Being a Warrior is crazy! Just think. It's being on top of the world one minute and on the bottom the next . . . cramming hours for a test which turns out to be a breeze or forgetting to study for a humdinger . . . saving homework for homeroom just the day a convo is scheduled . . . anticipating a big date and feeling let-down afterwards . . . falling in and out of love at least once a week . . . waiting for that fabulous moment of becoming a senior only to find it means responsibilities. In a nutshell, it's being a part of 1963-64, a school year that's super-cool.

You can't. Our building is a sprawling super structure, completed in 1960 at the cost of $4½ million. Located east of Indianapolis on a 74-acre tract, our facilities meet the needs of our 1400 students —with room to grow. Only in its fourth year of use, Warren Central High School has equipment worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. Our classrooms include top-notch language, reading, industrial arts, and science labs. Such facilities mean a better understanding of the subject matter and a greater pride in our school. Without a doubt, Warriors have an excellent opportunity for learning.

SP-IR-IT— Warriors Have It!

The pinnacle of spirit was shown by students' cheers to boost the team on as they crashed through the hoop before the Lawrence game.

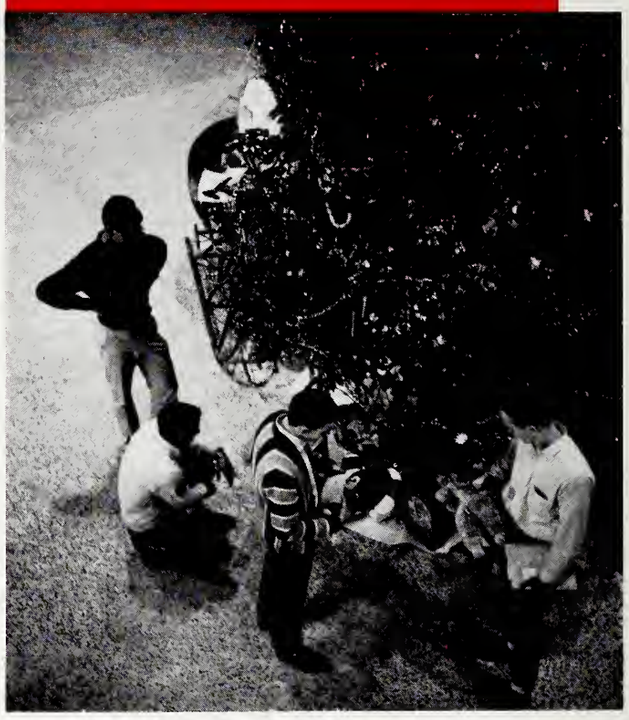
John Hilkene pins a Homecoming mum on Sharon Day as he calls for her en route to the big game with county rival Lawrence.

Excited students and parents boost our team on to victory, led in spirited cheers by exuberant cheerleaders.

"Go! Go! Go!" we chanted with the cheerleaders as the Warriors burst the hoop. These sights and sounds recurred throughout the year at both football and basketball games. Each season was highlighted by a Homecoming game when we wore mums, elected a queen, and greeted sentimental graduates who returned to watch us. At pep sessions we practiced our school spirit, which we also displayed in other forms—through our pride in speech and debate teams, music groups, dramatics presentations, publications, arts and crafts, and many individual s c h o l a s t i c achievements.

Cupid brought happiness to many on Valentine's Day, especially Donna Cole. Reigning over Homecoming, Donna was Winter Sports Queen.

September is significant to Warrenites not only because it is the beginning of school but also because it is the time to join clubs.



Warrenites expressed their Christmas spirit by bringing gifts for the annual Red Cross project.

Activities and Social Life—

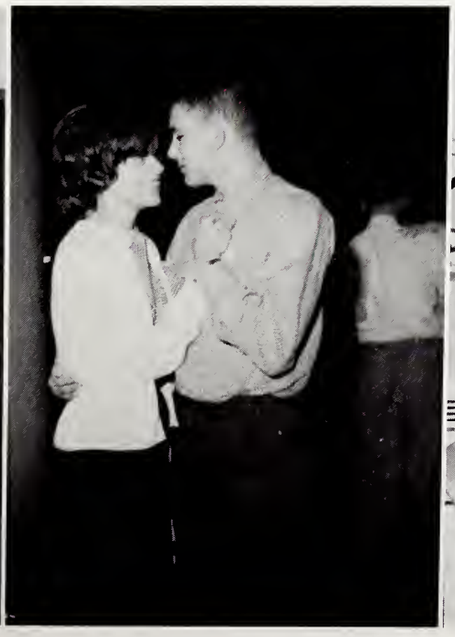
Madrigals, one of Warren Central's top vocal music groups, placed first at the annual state music contest at Butler University.

What would a Warrior's life be like without sock-hops, clubs, plays, and proms? Probably none of us could imagine going to school without these extra-curricular essentials. We lent our talent and energy to 35 clubs; and some 400 of us regularly attended after-game sock hops. Decorating for proms, Homecoming, and plays was hard work but fun for all. So much to do: that special flurry at Christmas . . . slumber parties . . . pizzas . . . orchestra concerts . . . musicals . . . dates . . . But isn't it a blast?

Social life for Warren girls and their mothers is highlighted by the annual Valentine Tea. The tea allows girls to learn the "social graces" in preparing for life as a young lady.

Warriors Love 'Em!

A wonderful evening begins as Don Limbach arrives for his date, Marilou Patrick; later, Charles Yotter and Linda Thurston enjoy dancing to "My Heart Belongs to You"; still later, Pam Rehl arrives wide awake and ready for anything but sleep at a slumber party. A typical teenage girl, Pam goes to five or six slumber parties during the year, averaging two to four hours sleep.

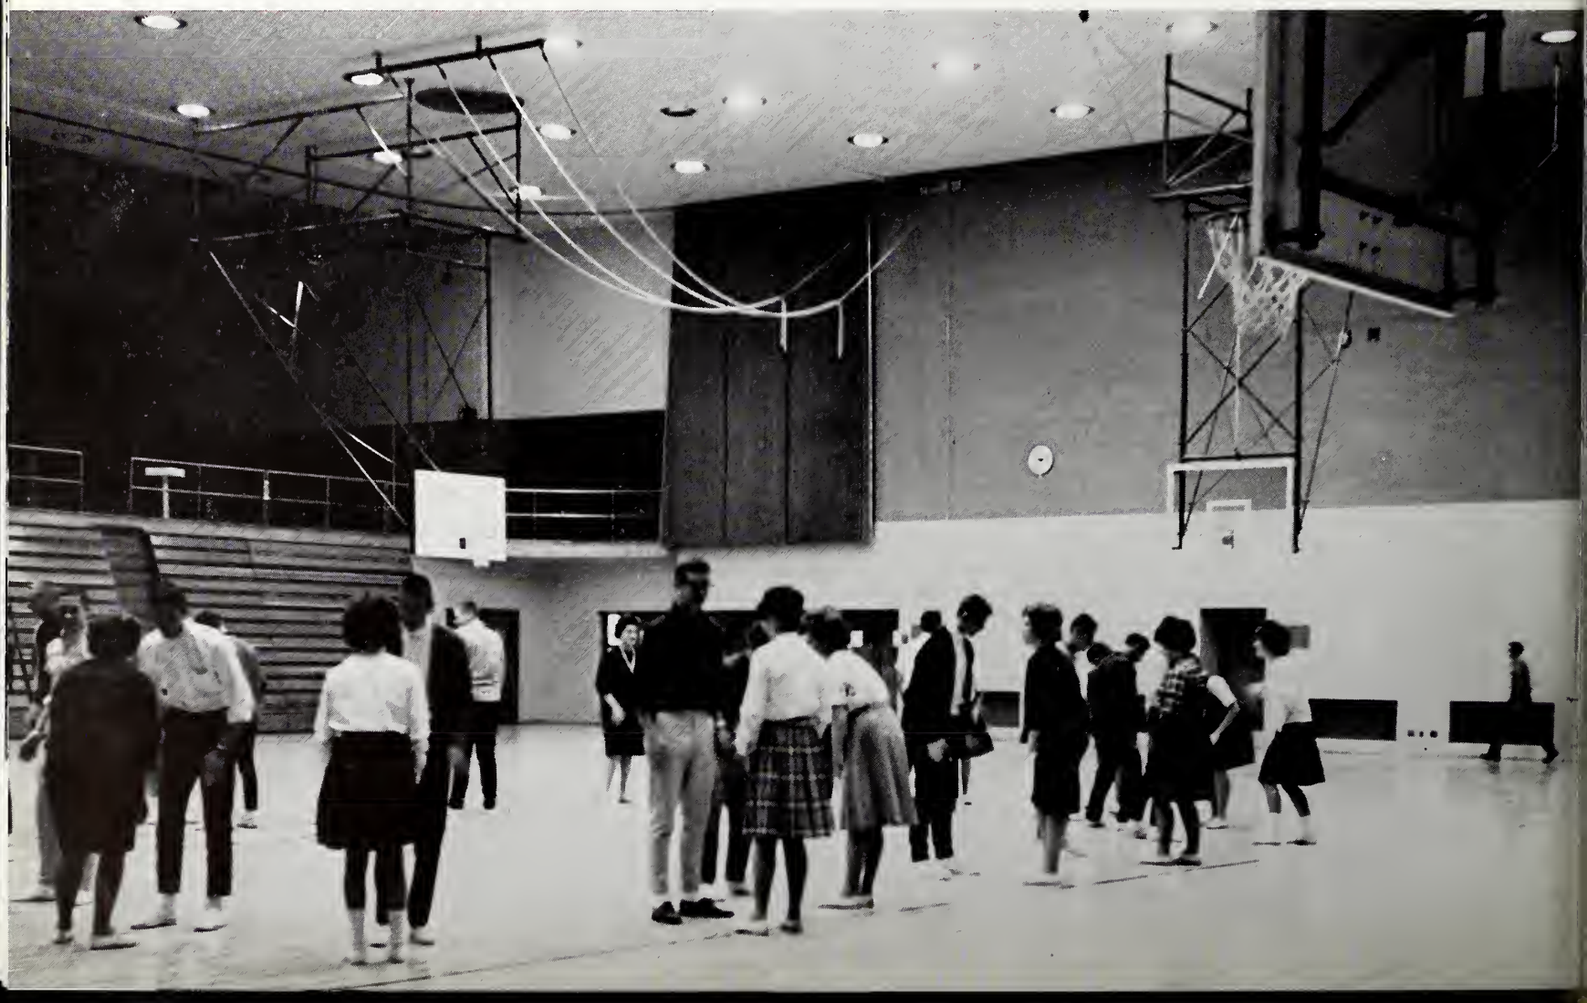


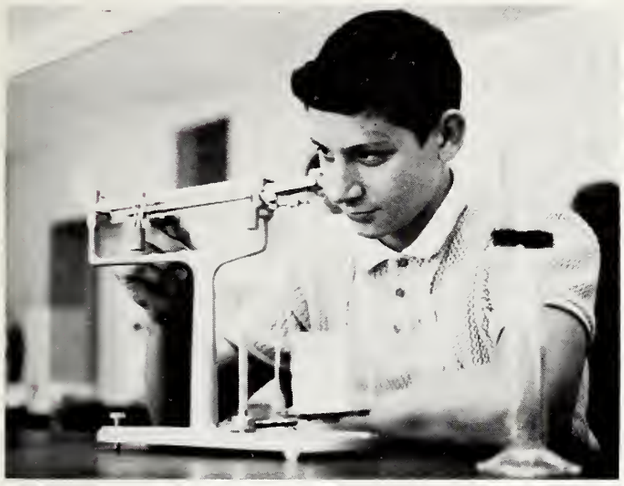
Each fall the line seems to get longer as students wait to buy books and school supplies while they trade summer experiences.

Puzzles which Warrenites encounter each day may come in many forms. Tom Sponcil tackles one of these in his typing class.

Of Course, There Were Other Things—

Physical education class has a wide varied program. Occasionally boys' and girls' classes meet for joint instruction and practice in social and square dancing steps.





Chemistry students like Carl Stocker find that a steady hand is as essential as an alert mind for performing experiments properly.

Like Classes

Approximately 1,045 hours of each year Warren Central students spend in the classroom. However, this time is not so much a drag as the figure may suggest. Classes are anything but monotonous, dull, or uninteresting. Our labs invite us to perform experiments in chemistry and research in biology. Films, recordings, and field trips bring us closer to the subject. Things like this, along with a nudge from the teacher, help hours to pass quickly and make learning easy.

Who says classes are dull and boring? Not us. Mr. Tansey's algebra students, like many other Warrenites, enjoy a good laugh. It simply makes the main course more digestible.

Warrenites Recall

Memories, like an education, can't be taken away. This year has provided many memories—happy and sad. Fall reminds us of Homecoming and bonfire rallies. Winter recalls Christmas, snow, and vacations. A record snow gave us two extra days just before semester finals. We thrilled when our basketball team won the county crown. As the year wore into spring we dated, danced, partied, clung to tradition, and looked for something new. But not all memories are pleasant. Who will forget the day the President was assassinated.

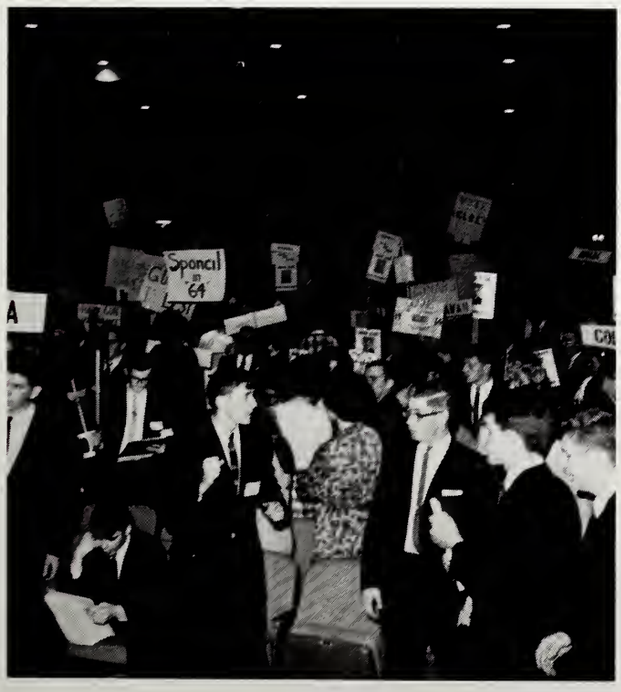
Providing excitement and entertainment for both spectators and participants, the Teeny Weeny "500" has become a tradition.

Coach Virgil Kirkpatrick proudly displays the county championship trophy before the elated student body at a special convo to celebrate our victory.

—John F. Kennedy: 1917-1963—
Flying at half mast from November 22 until Christmas vacation, our flag reminded us of the sacrifice our President made.

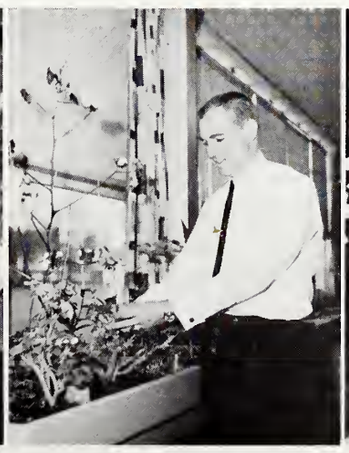
Lasting Memories

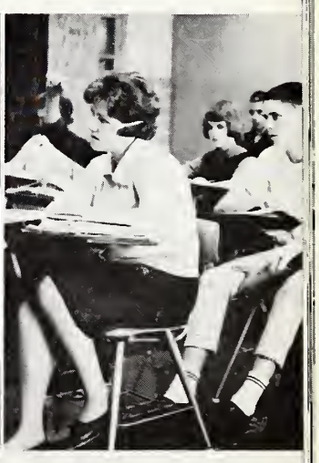
On March 18 the seniors attended the Sixty Fourers convention representing their respective States. This learning experience was enlivened by nominations, speeches, and demonstrations.

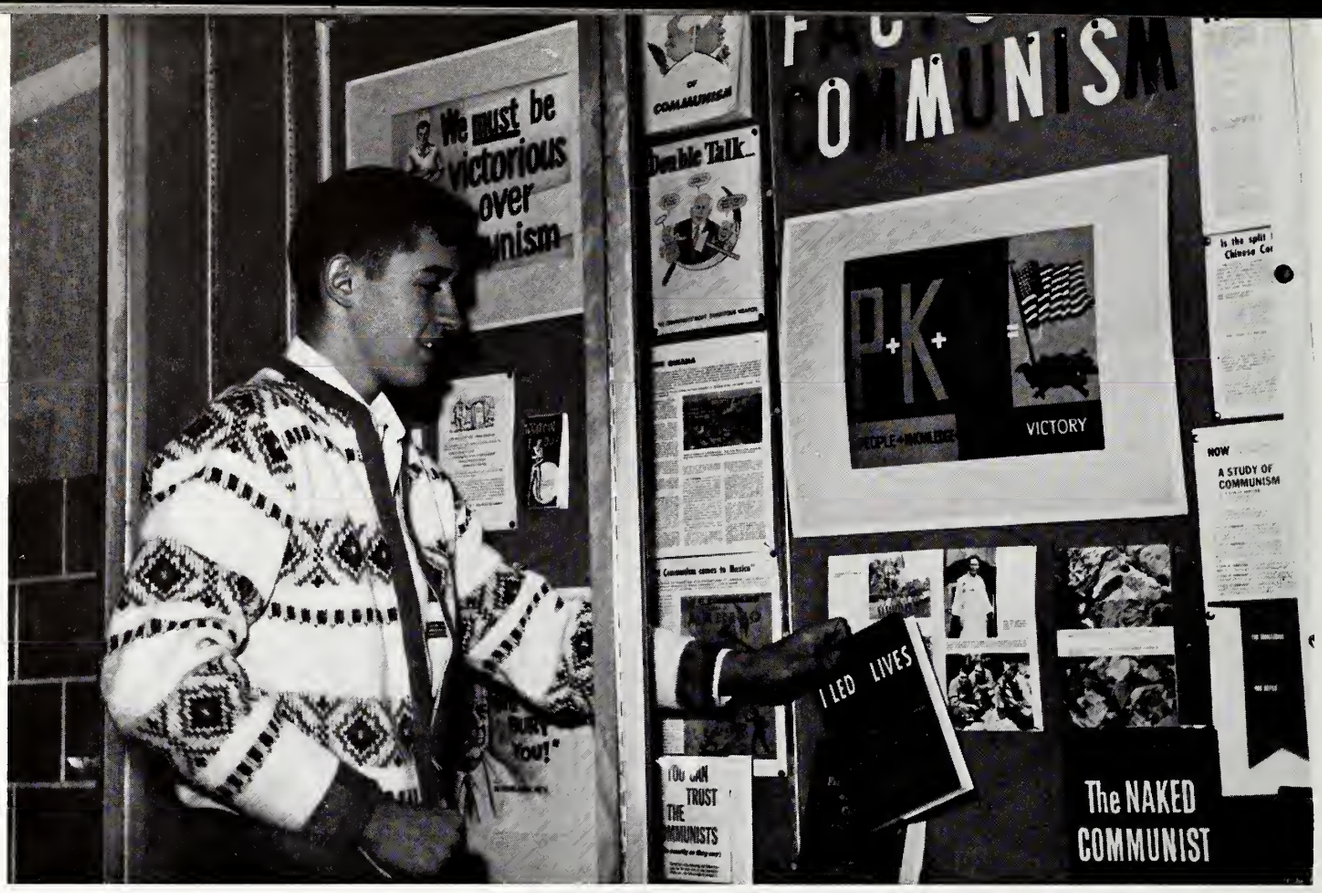


Believe it or not! Despite the mountains of homework and endless tests, learning can be enjoyable and satisfying. A feeling of real accomplishment rushes over us when a teacher returns a paper with a big A on it. The tutoring system can be fun, too, especially when the tutor is of the opposite sex. Aside from the pranks and fun at school, Warriors find it a place to learn — failures, mishaps, and all.

Learning Can Be Fun, Too







The social studies display case often contains articles and displays of current interest. Alan Crapo arranges some of the highlights of his display on the Facts of Communism.

Pupils Study Growing World and Its Problems

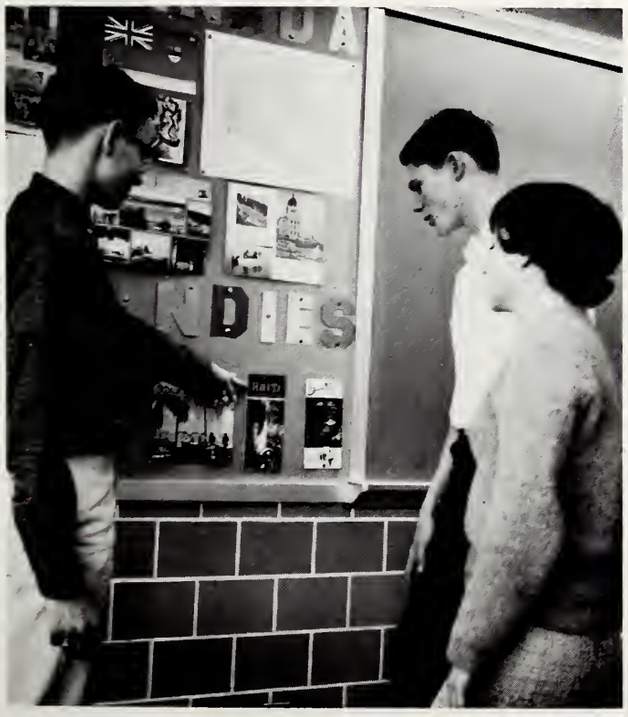
The rise and fall of daily stock market prices are checked by economics students Tony Hogan, Carol Shackelford, and Gene Toffolo as they examine the Wall Street Journal.

Students in social studies classes at Warren find that it is possible to learn much about the civilizations of today by studying the civilizations of the past. Juniors study the growth of our country geographically, economically, and politically in U.S. history classes. Government classes help seniors to understand their rights and responsibilities as they study the structure of politics and how a democracy works. For several years government classes have staged mock assemblies and elections. This year they had a mock convention and nominated a "candidate" for President.

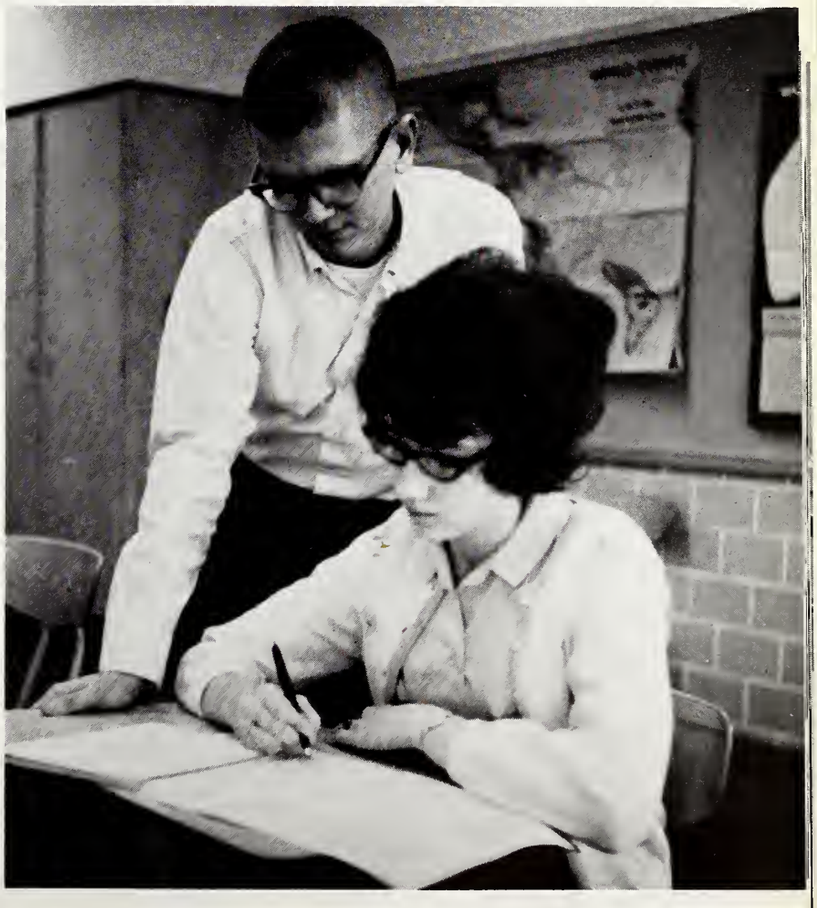
Films and discussions of current events remain an important part of social studies classes. These are especially significant in the international relations class, which got a close view of some major crises. They discussed such events as President Kennedy's assassination, the Panama crisis, the civil rights demonstrations, and the coming 1964 election.

Many social studies classes, such as family living, economics, and cadet teaching will help students in future jobs. Students enrolled in psychology find that they begin to understand themselves better as they delve into each other's motives.

Don Baker, Barbara Poole, and John Shipley lead a discussion on Latin American affairs in international relations class. Class discussions give students a chance to voice their own opinions and hear the views of others on a subject of current interest.

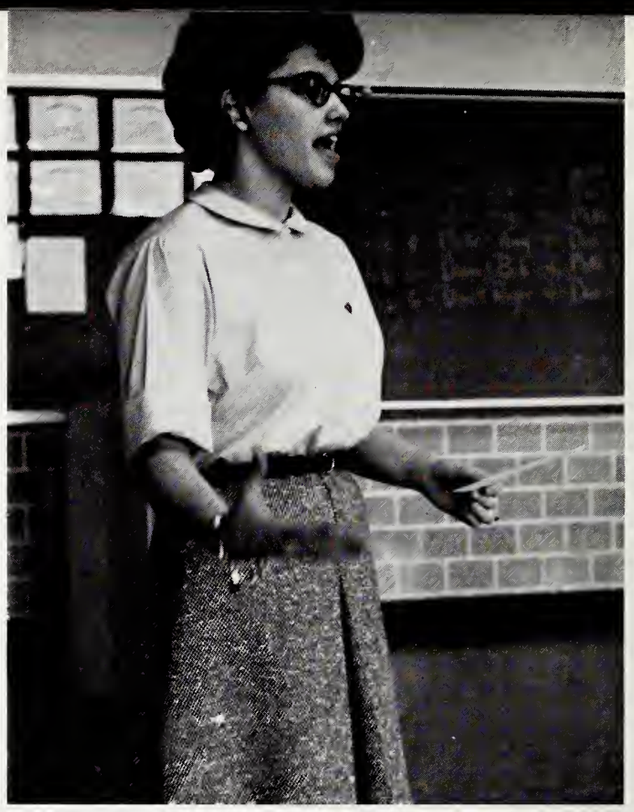


World history students Keith Madix, Peggy Miles, and David Daniels find the West Indies display helpful in their studies.



Taxes are a part of American life. Don Limbach helps Sharon Stropes solve a sample income tax problem in government.

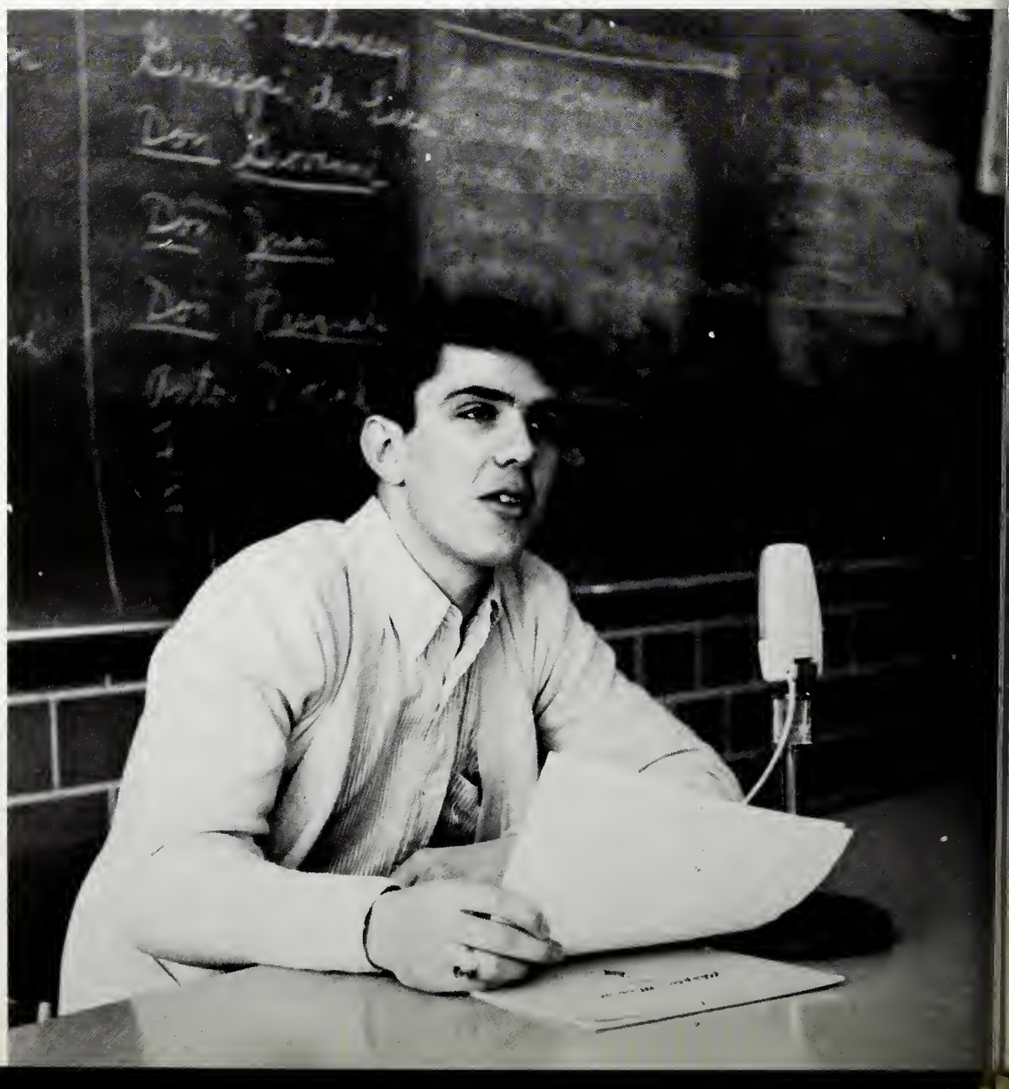
As part of an assignment in beginning journalism class, Peggy Ellis, Penny Likens, Kirby Cummings, and John Montgomery analyze newspapers to determine their content and format.



Practicing speech skills, senior Mary Ann Banta adds emphasis to her dramatic interpretation through use of facial expressions and appropriate movements of the hand.

Students Keep Busy

Speech students learn the skills of public speaking. Practice in parliamentary procedure, ad libbing and writing speeches helps students gain confidence and become better speakers. Here, Tom Cochrun practices radio announcing, gaining experience in one of many areas of public speaking.



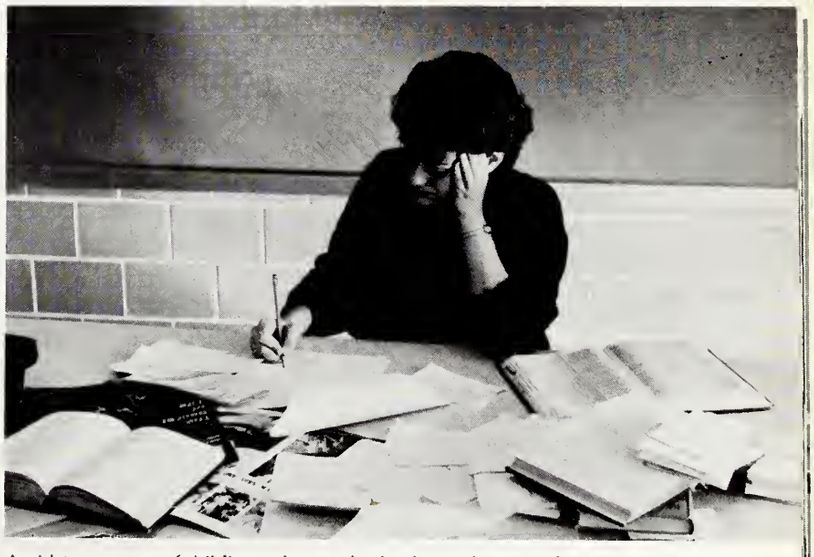
Literature classes not only read stories, poems, and novels, but also have class discussions to determine the author's purpose in writing and discover the "hidden meaning" of the story. Here, sophomores Ron Farris, Randy Denny, Carl Lewis, Jim Faust, Margueritte Witte, and Deirdre Koby put themselves into the story to analyze the characters' actions.

Learning Various Ways To Use Native Tongue

Nouns, verbs, short stories, novels, and research papers can all be linked to one subject—English. Students have been studying English "ever since they can remember," but each year they learn something new. English is required for all sophomore and junior students. Although English is not a senior requirement, many seniors take a fourth year.

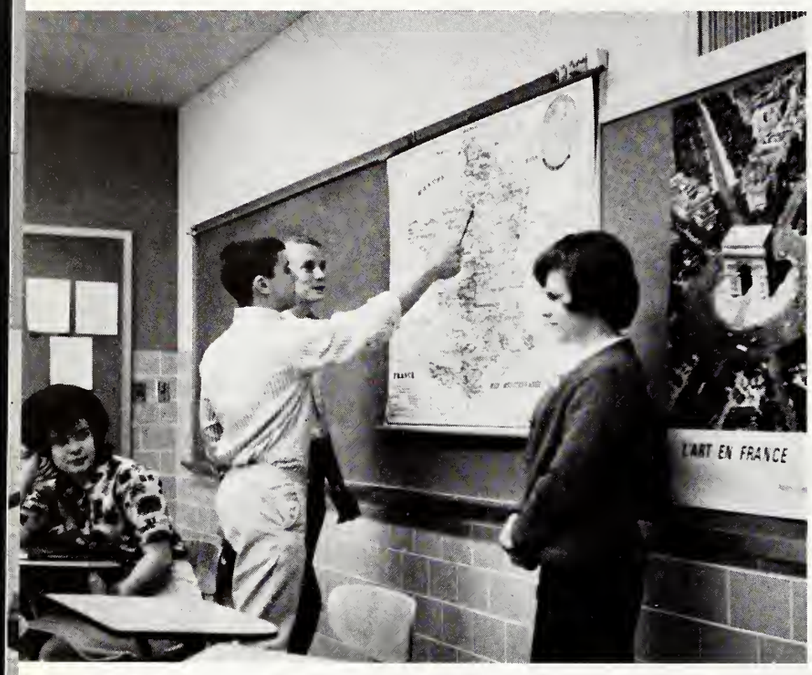
Besides reviewing the basic fundamentals of English and learning new skills, students also participate in class discussions of various related topics, such as news media, and write a research paper on a subject of their choice. From literature students learn the "make-up" of short stories and novels, and study the works of famous authors and poets. Sophomore and junior students go to reading lab for four weeks where they improve their reading skills, learning to comprehend what they read while increasing their vocabulary and reading speed.

Speech students learn the fundamentals of public speaking. At a Student Congress students propose resolutions and try to convince the Congress to pass them. Speeches on current events, radio announcing, and ad libbing are all a part of the course of study. Students practice in many areas of oral expression and find that this class is one which will be useful in the future, no matter what career they choose.



Amidst a maze of bibliography cards, books and notes, Jo Ann Bradfield hurries to complete her research paper on time.

Dialogues and Equations Challenge Students



In learning more about France, French students Jim Penn, Mike Alger, and Dana Tapscott point out cities of interest.

Foreign language classes sing songs to improve pronunciation. John Younce joins in singing a German folk song.

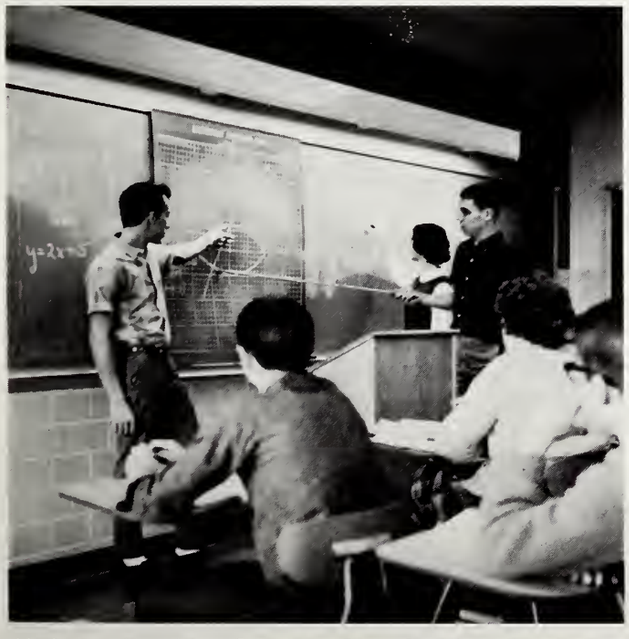
in Math and Languages

When one walks through the halls at Warren Central, he may hear "buenos días," "bon jour," "guten tag," or "tempus fugit." Warren students may enroll in one to four years of Spanish or French, or one to two years of German or Latin. College-bound students find languages to be good background requirements.

In the modern languages stress is laid upon speaking and comprehending. The students are given practice each week in the language laboratory. Students also learn the culture, background, and customs of the countries where the language is spoken. Although Latin is not a spoken language, it is one of the languages from which ours is derived and helps many students understand English better.

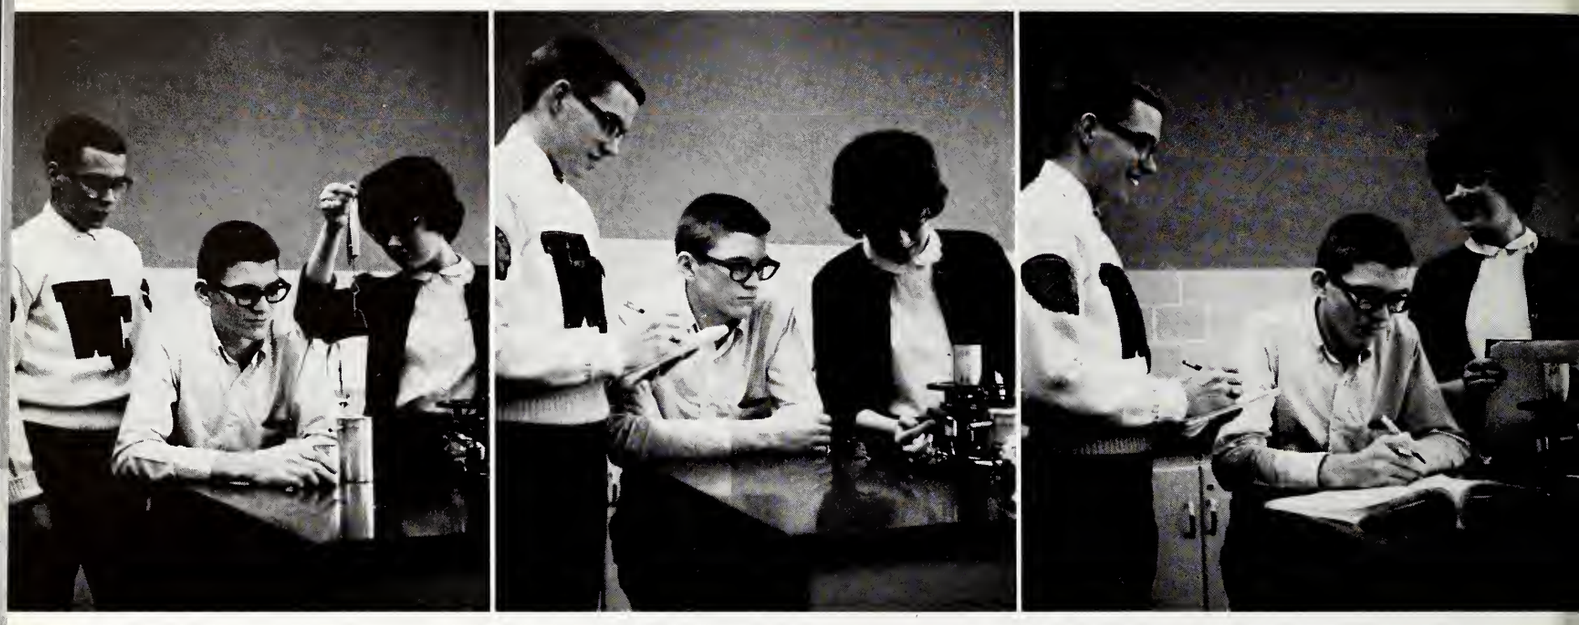
The logarithm of a root of a number is equal to the logarithm of the number divided by the index of the root. Recognize this language? It is the language of mathematics, well-known to the many Warrenites enrolled in algebra, plane geometry, trigonometry, or senior math. Both traditional and experimental classes are offered in geometry. As math becomes more essential for college and careers, many students enroll in two math courses in one semester, enabling them to take more math during high school, and to be better prepared for college.

Tom Nidiffer prepares a light energy display for the math display case. A light bulb provides the power.



Algebra students Larry Foster and David Daniels explain a graph problem, while Bev Niles solves an equation which will be graphed.

John Shipley, Edie Steiniger, Shirley Mithoefer, and Mike Ney prove theorems in solid geometry by using a triangular model.



Investigating Archemedes' principle, physics students Richard Yantis, Bob Heisel, and Susan Hillier conduct an experiment. First, Susan lowers an object of known mass into the container, displacing a quantity of water. They determine the mass of water displaced, and then make their final calculations to determine if the displacement equals the buoyant force.

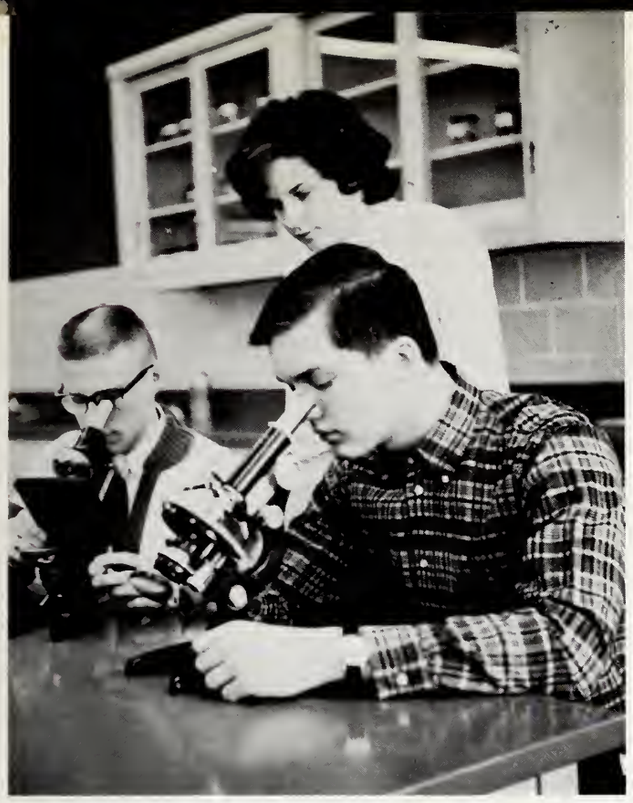
Chemicals, Equipment Attract Pupil Interest

Biology students Dianne Britt, Paul Price, Dan Moriarity, and Roberta Rominger identify the bones of the human skeleton.

Science has always been a part of the world around us. Therefore, Warren students find that by taking science courses, they can better understand the things around them—such as why the sound of a train whistle varies as it approaches and then departs, or how a plant makes food.

Warren's well-equipped science laboratories provide a place for students to experiment, and discover what happens when magnesium burns, what the inside of a frog looks like, or how Archemedes' principle works. Since nature can best be studied outside, science classes often invade the woods around Warren. Bugs, plants, and small animals are studied in their native habitat, and often specimens are brought back to the classrooms for observation. Students are also taught through the use of demonstrations, oscilliscopes, and other pieces of equipment.

Students in biology, physiology, botany and zoology learn about the lives and functions of plants, animals, and human beings. Physical science students learn about the physical aspects of the world, such as the formation of rocks, or the weather. In chemistry students see the chemical make-up of the things around them, while in physics they deal with energy, work, matter, light, sound, and electricity.



In zoology Tom Wolfe, Gloria VanLue, and John Belshaw use the microscopes in their study of microscopic animals.

Benny Fuchs points out a fossil in a rock collection to fellow students Dinnia Willis, Linda Johnson, and Jim Cahill.

in Frontier of Science

Rodney Horton and Cheryl Lady perform an experiment on the preparation and recovery of hydrogen. Experiments give students a chance to discover how chemical reactions occur.

With their mouths open and their eyes on Mr. Dunn, Diana Skillern, Barbara White, and Linda Thum practice a song in Warrenaires during a third-period rehearsal.

Art and Music Students

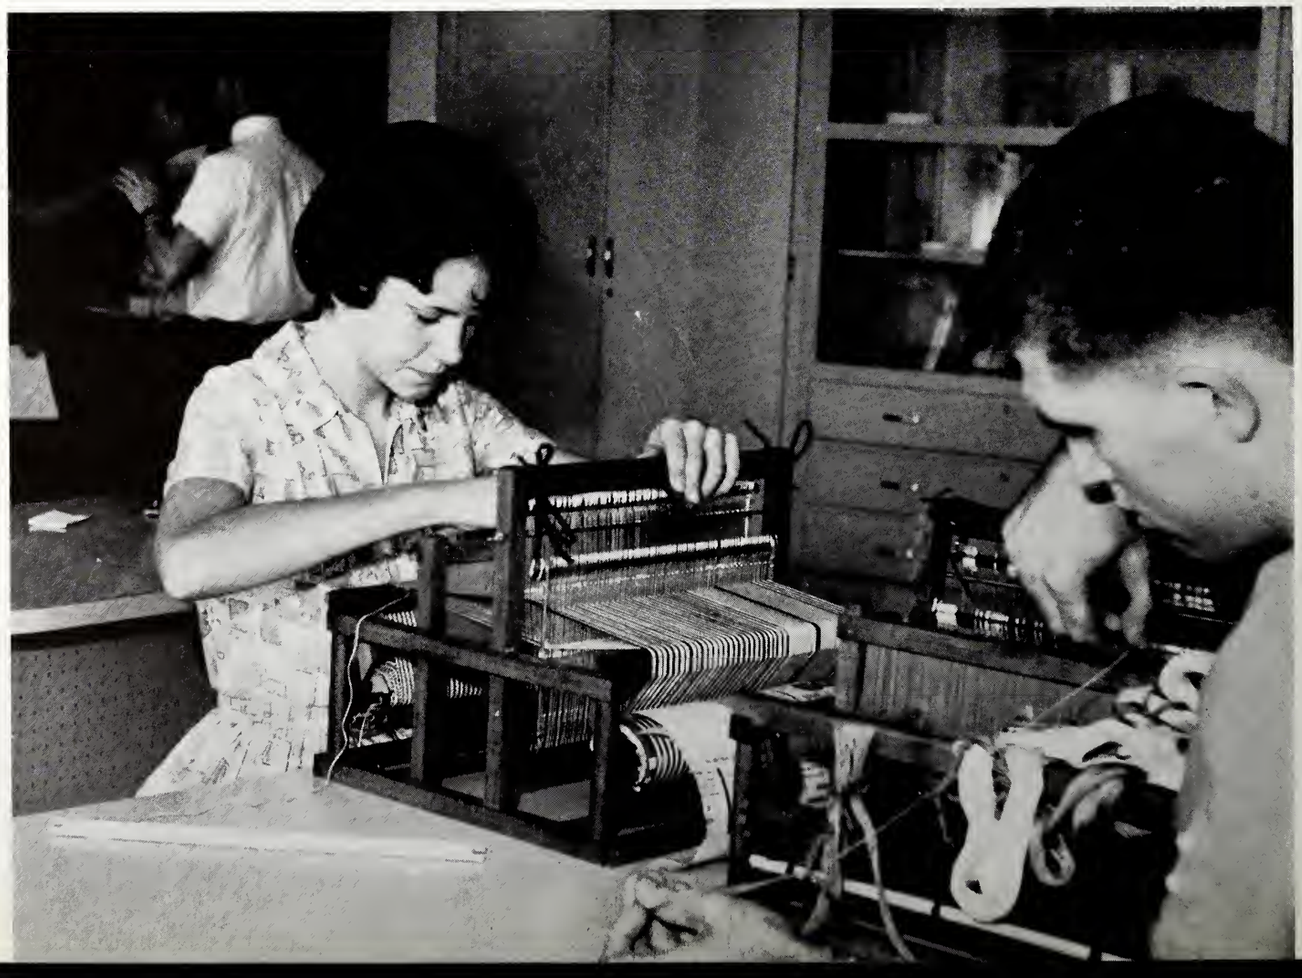
The art department, staffed by Miss Julia Faucett, department head, Miss Gayle Allison, and Mr. Hans Heiser, offers five classes to interested students. Beginning art, advanced art, commercial art, ceramics, and crafts give students a chance to develop their skills and knowledge of art.

The library's approximately 9,000 books can be used for reports or recreational reading. An average of 281 students visit the library daily to study or browse. A survey made last year showed that approximately 44,926 students and teachers used the library facilities during some 160 days.

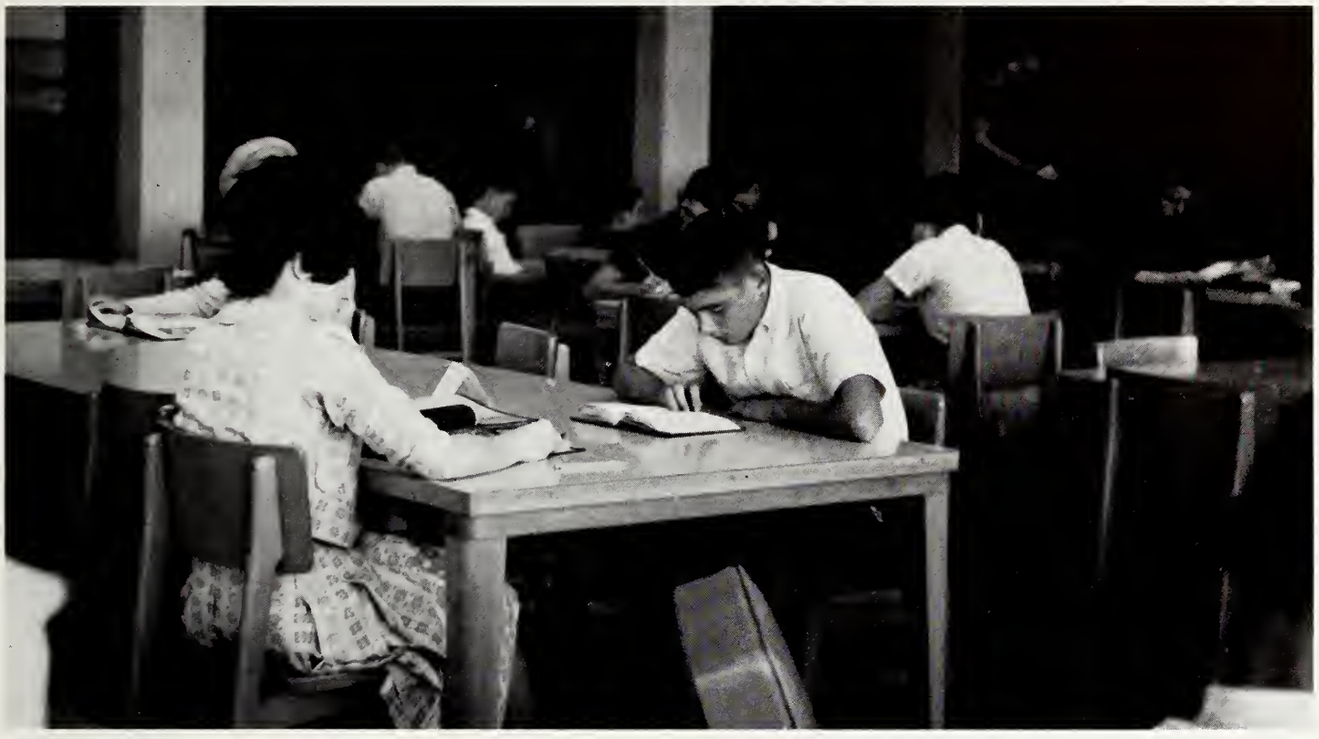
Music classes include vocal and instrumental instruction. Students learn to read music for their own enjoyment and for participation in the performing groups.

The audio-visual department, supervised by Mr. Perle Fisher, provides audio-visual aids for all township schools. The newest equipment is an Ampex tape recorder, used mainly by the music department. The most-used pieces of equipment are nine projectors with the $70,000 film library.

Using a hand loom, Susan Graves and Dave Brown weave a project in Crafts I class. The crafts class, new this year, teaches students to develop practical art skills.



Apply Basic Skills to Advanced Techniques



While the library supplies books, magazines, and other literature for reports, students find that it also provides an ideal place for studying or recreational reading.

Art student Linda Fan finishes a still life picture. Students in advanced art develop techniques learned in beginning art.

As part of her duties, A-V assistant Jane Carter schedules films. These films are visual aids and add interest to daily assignments.

Mrs. Rosalind White leads her class in daily exercises. Routine exercises are a part of the regular physical education program, as are physical fitness tests and participation in sports.

Cars, Gym Become Classrooms as Pupils Learn

Karen Gilchrist and Pat Witte wait for gym assistant Linda Crouch to toss the basketball for a jump ball during a game.

Bob Sarver practices basketball skills in physical education class. This required course provides an outlet for excess energy.

Mr. Miedema explains maneuvers to Marlene Stough while Cheryl Blaisdell practices parallel parking.

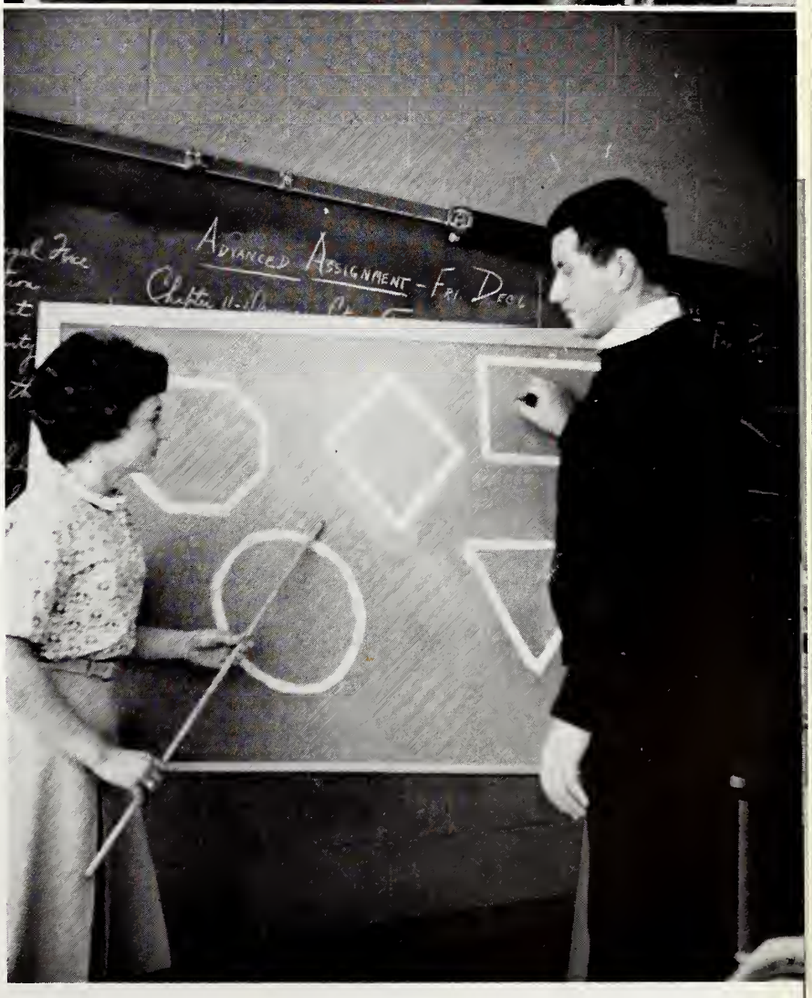
Mary Rubeck makes sure her seat belt is fastened before beginning to drive. Safety is stressed in driver education classes.

Skills for Future Use

Physical education teaches skills and sportsmanship, while providing relaxation and fun. Mr. Vernon Chelton and Mrs. Rosalind White, gym teachers, have the distinction of teaching every single Warrenite since physical education is required. Although some girls will never become experts on the trampoline, all may learn the basic skills in gymnastics and tumbling as well as in team sports.

Boys learn team sports, such as football, and individual sports such as tennis or golf. Physical education gives students activities to enjoy in the future, keeps them in good health, and helps develop social qualities.

Driver education classes create safety-minded drivers and encourage voluntary observance of laws. Having begun in 1947, driver education attracts 144 students each semester. They complete 32 classroom hours and six hours of behind-the-wheel driving.



Classroom sessions teach students the "rules of the road". Carolyn Loeper and Mike Hanna point out the basic sign shapes.

Home Ec Labs Hold Valuable Secrets for All

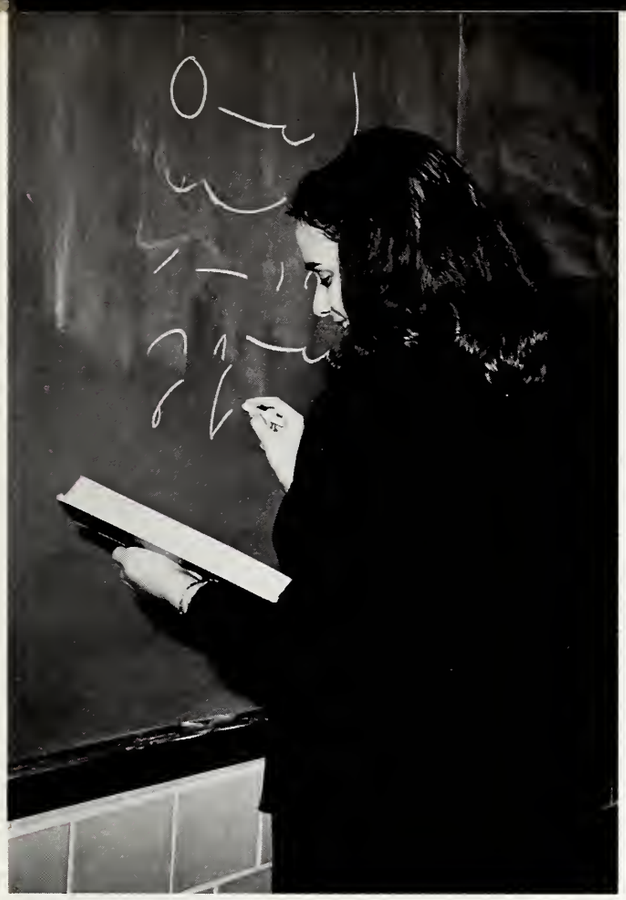
Clothing student Sandy Hight finds that Mrs. Carpenter can help her solve her sewing problems.

Mixing ingredients thoroughly, Cheryl Ditton prepares something "good to eat" in home economics foods class.

No matter what her career, every girl has a lifetime job—making a home for herself and those who share her life. Girls in home economics classes learn wise use of their time, energy, and money in classes that feature solving problems and working with others. Along with the courses in modern foods and clothing, girls may learn to purchase, furnish, and decorate their own homes in Home Management and Consumer Buying. Girls who anticipate careers know the importance of coming home to pleasant surroundings—on a budget plan.

Others may elect Child Development, which is an intensive study of the physical, emotional, psychological, and social development of the child. The second semester is Home Nursing which teaches care for the sick and methods of disease prevention. Useful to all girls, home economics provides an atmosphere of learning mixed with enjoyment and pride as a preparation for gracious living in a busy world.

Housing students Maryann Kuhn, Sandy Miller, Judy Perdue, and Shirley Mithoefer inspect rug and drapery samples.



Writing shorthand symbols on the board, Judy Hipkiss reviews some of the basic skills of the sometimes confusing subject.

Mr. Baldwin helps Bill Cox solve a bookkeeping problem. Business courses teach students skills which are useful in future jobs.

Business Skills Provide Background for Careers

"Be sure to set the right-hand margin at 15."

"Your first tab should be at 25."

"Put the name of the firm on the top line."

These are familiar instructions to students enrolled in business education classes at Warren. The courses offered are designed to prepare the students to meet the problems of the business world.

Typing, bookkeeping, accounting, and shorthand are among the subjects offered. Secretarial students can attend classes in office practice and office machines, while clerical students find business math and business law helpful. In all courses, the department has an enrollment of 784.

Not all the students in business classes are headed for business vocations. Many take courses to help them in daily life or later in college. For non-business majors, there are one-semester college preparatory typing classes. The students discover that the skills they learn are valuable to them in other classes, as well.

A timed-writing in advanced typing requires concentration and skill as Karen Gainey, Judy Miner and Kathy Prange discover.

Alex Jernigan and Gary Bailey adjust and aim headlights, one of many jobs in transportation class. Maintenance of parts adds to the student's knowledge of power.

Industrial Arts, Agriculture Study Opens New

Perfecting their woodworking projects are David Harmon, Bob Bechert, and Raymond Harvey.

In printshop, Bob Wilson and Jim Riggs use the new offset process camera to copy and reproduce photos.

Agriculture teacher Mr. Kennedy uses a model to illustrate lessons in livestock for Bill Connell, Ben Pryor, and Gary Greene.

World to Warren Pupils

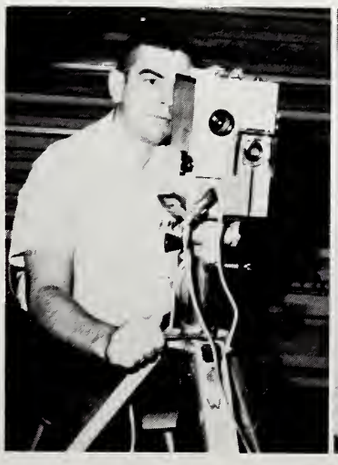
Warren's six industrial arts classes are all geared to tap the creative nerve. Drafting students learn the elements of design, while printing students trace the history of the 500-year-old craft. Power, machines, and cars combine to attract boys to machine shop and transportation. Boys in wood shop use their hands to make practical items. Electronics gives boys knowledge which will be of value in this changing world. These concepts of precision, power, co-operation, and pride give the industrial arts student a deeper insight into his own value.

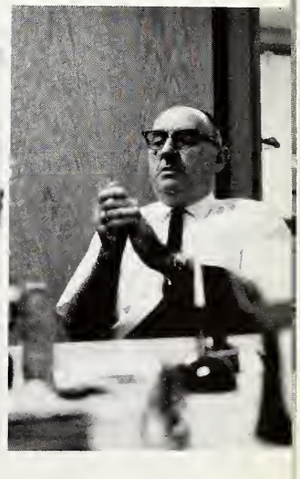
Although 60 per cent of all jobs are related to agriculture, less than 10 per cent of these are agriculture more boys need to be familiar with farming jobs. As industry plays a greater role in technological advances in evaluation of soil, livestock, and crops. These, and other problems of the farmer, are studied in Warren's agriculture classes. Special judging contests and fairs serve as extra-curricular programs to stimulate interest and further knowledge.

Larry Bade, Dennis Koch, and Daniel Lee inspect corn and sunflowers at Warren's Grain Fair, a project of the agricultural classes.

Put all 1400 of us together, but don't push the panic button yet. Behind all that rat-race, there's order; behind the confusion, there's system; and behind the excitement, there's routine. When the seniors try to out-do the underclassmen, they wind up helping them. We all try in a common cause to out-smart the teachers. Much to our surprise, however, we suddenly discover that's what they want and expect.

1400 Reasons Why We're Tops





Mr. Edward H. Cuddy, Warren's principal, heads the administrative staff and makes daily decisions that help our school to function smoothly and efficiently.

Administration Contributes Time and Effort

Mr. Obert Piety, assistant principal, gives Mr. Cuddy valuable aid in many administrative duties. He also co-sponsors the Student Council along with Mrs. Siebert.

Mrs. Maude Siebert, dean of girls, and Mr. Clifford Gates, dean of boys, check the daily attendance. Mrs. Siebert also manages the cafeteria and co-sponsors the Student Council.

The Warren Township Board of Education met with Mr. Jesse Metzger, assistant to the superintendent, while Supt. Walker was in Sweden. Board members are Messrs. Robert C. Anderson, president; Wayne Foster, vice-president; George Yotter, secretary; James T. Sykes, treasurer; and Herbert S. Fall, member. Standing at right is Mr. Metzger.

To Aid Warren Central

Warriors have much to be proud of. Our school district now includes nine schools. The district's superintendent, Mr. Austin E. Walker, is one of the most qualified men in his field. He was chosen last fall as one of ninety educators to spend six weeks in Sweden as a guest of the Swedish government. As superintendent, Mr. Walker works closely with the Board of Education on the annual budget and the improvements that keep our schools operating.

Principal Edward H. Cuddy has been Warren's head administrator since 1957, the first year after the organization of the Metropolitan School system. Under the guidance of Mr. Cuddy and Mr. Walker, Warren Central received a special first class commission in the North Central Association of Secondary Schools.

As our school's enrollment grows, Mr. Obert Piety's duties as assistant principal make him an indispensible aid to Mr. Cuddy.

Mrs. Maude Siebert, dean of girls, and Mr. Clifford Gates, dean of boys, provide necessary discipline and assist students in solving problems.

Mr. Austin E. Walker has been Superintendent of the growing Metropolitan School District of Warren Township since 1957.

Senior Council, Class Officers Strive To Make

For 389 Warrenites the 1963-64 school year transformed a long awaited dream into reality—for these Warrenites had become SENIORS. We returned to school in the fall, anticipating the events the coming year would hold. No longer underclassmen, we entered the building with an air of superiority. Although we were the smallest class in comparison with the underclassmen, we decided it was quality and not quantity that mattered. Yes, a year full of confusion, fun, and growing up had begun!

Fun soon took over as football season got under way, a la sockhops, Fall Sports Queen, and homecoming. As the various clubs and activities organized for the year, the Senior Council began to plan the senior activities which would be coming up as the year progressed, such as the prom, graduation, and cards.

Along with the fun and confusion, growing up was a part of our senior year as we prepared for life after graduation, whatever that might bring.

of Warren Tradition

Each senior class contributes some fads and fashions of their own. This is a part of the tradition — to leave something which will be remembered as being introduced by their class.

The class of '64 brought with it a look of youth. Boys wore college-boy hair cuts which resembled those of a younger boy. Girls, with their knee-socks and Italian loafers, brought the "school girl' look to many. Other new fads which prevailed throughout our senior year were blast jacke's, high topped boots, and pin-striped shirts. Some items that have almost become tradition returned—the Italian knit sweaters, kilts, and charm bracelets.

The seniors, being the leading class, brought many of these changes, but other things did not change. Among these was the time honored custom of exchanging senior calling cards with classmates, to have their names forever in our memory books. Senior pictures were also exchanged. Another non-changing tradition was that of Senior wills. In these, seniors left various "treasurers?" to underclassmen.

With the class of '64, changes were observed while traditions were preserved.

The social tradition of exchanging senior cards is passed on from year to year. Judy Benjamin and Tom Settles proudly continue the custom as they pass on their way to class.

Heralding Homecoming and Queens

Although we were happy when our senior year finally arrived, we became a little misty as we recalled the events of our underclass years.

Which one of us could ever forget our first day as sophomores at Warren . . . how we took our places on the upper level bleachers for convocations and how our class yell was forever drowned out? We came to Warren that fall of '61, frightened and uncertain of what lay ahead; but when June came, we had found our places.

The next fall we returned as juniors, more at ease with the senior class, and eager to show our superiority to the now "little" sophomores. Receiving our class rings was the first step that distinguished us from underclassmen, and we cherished that distinction.

As seniors we felt ready to demonstrate our quality by electing senior Judy Varner as Fall Sports Queen at the fall Homecoming. By adding quality to spirit at pep sessions, we thoroughly enjoyed the Homecoming, knowing that next year we would be the ones to "come home".

As Fall Homecoming drew near, school spirit increased. During a pep session before the long-awaited game, the senior boys supported the team with their sign "Seniors Say Beat Bears!"

The senior year was a busy year as the endless number of organizations and activities began once more.

Seniors dominated club offices and displayed leadership throughout the year. The seniors participated in and supported many projects. This year seniors' efforts were seen on many occasions, in various ways, in fun, and in seriousness. Among these were the Hi-C Feed-a-Family project and the March of Dimes drag race (which the sophomores won). We joined junior and sophomore Warrenettes in greeting our moms at the annual Valentine Tea. Senior Warrenettes planned the "Mistletoe Magic" Christmas dance.

In May, as seniors staged the "Teeny Weeny 500" bicycle race, senior activities for the year were nearing an end. Ahead lay the grand finale: the Senior Play, Senior Prom, class picnic, graduation dance, and finally Commencement.

The senior year is truly a busy year . . .

One of the many projects supported by seniors is the Feed-a-Family drive sponsored by the Hi-C Bible Club. Seniors Jim Hogue and Linda Praul contribute to the collection of canned food to be presented to a needy family in the community.

Could it be an onion? an apple? or a piece of peppermint candy? This is the situation Nancy Little finds herself in as Linda Thum presents the sense test introduced to her in psychology class.

As seniors we became more aware of our grades with each passing day. Each started the year with a schedule which had been planned with great care. With a goal of receiving at least thirty-six credits, and two majors and minors for graduation, we feverishly began to complete our task.

To the required courses of government and English, seniors added many elective courses. Among these were psychology, senior math, and college prep typing. One requirement of the senior English student was to write a research paper.

Government classes proved interesting as well as profitable as we held mock Congresses, United Nations, and elections. Psychology, a new course offered for seniors, was met with curiosity as seniors probed into the unknown. It consisted of an extensive study of personality, mental and emotional health, intelligence, and thinking.

In spite of changes, traditions were also being acknowledged by seniors. Each found himself at last seated in the front seats at convocations and also donning his better clothes to wear on Senior Dress-Up Day. Fulfilling another tradition, senior boys began to prepare for the "Teeny Weeny 500" Bicycle Race as soon as good weather broke.

One of our older traditions was that of wearing senior cords mostly at games. These yellow corduroy skirts and trousers were decorated with everything from black school letters and numerals to multi-colored monsters. We looked forward to investing in these and wore them with pride.

As the school year progressed, another fad emerged at Warren—the Beatles. This English singing group stormed through America and Warren Central with their long shaggy haircuts, heeled boots, and semi-continental songs.

Somehow we realized that being a senior was not all sweetness. It also meant acting like young adults, taking our education seriously, and being good sports; moreover, it meant responsibility.

Besides responsibilities, being a senior also brings privileges. Zona Kirkpatrick, a new student at Warren, admires Linda Crouch's "senior cords."

Dander Up, Warrenites Create Effigies To Burn

New events this year included the effigy burning bonfire before the Southport game. Each club produced a dummy or other burnable object representing the Southport cardinals to throw into the fire. Many clubs also composed skits and songs to accompany their "arson."

With the approach of the pep rally came enough rain to dampen our hopes and put out any bonfire. However, luck was ours, and we soon found ourselves seated on damp bleachers, watching the parade of effigy burners as the flames leaped higher and higher.

The success of the bonfire prompted us to look forward to other means of boosting school spirit. But people in other parts of the city were not so lucky that same Halloween night. Seventy-four persons died as a result of a violent explosion at the Indianapolis Coliseum minutes before the close of the ice show. This was called the worst disaster recorded in the history of Indiana, in terms of lives lost.

Senior Joann Peterman feathers a mock cardinal as Nancy Coates adjusts the eyes of the ungainly bird. The cardinal met its destiny at the effigy bonfire before the Southport game, one of the many activities and projects that seniors supported during the school year.

The decision of choosing which college to attend or which vocation to enter also brought the future closer. For the last three years we had prepared our schedule of courses, with the help of guidance counselors, according to our desired vocations. We knew the time was coming nearer when we would have to decide on a course, on a career, on a college — and the choice we would take would make all the difference.

The first part of our senior year we looked through college bulletins and yearbooks, applying for admission, taking entrance and scholarship examinations, and filling out applications.

Waiting for a glimpse of the future, we hoped for a letter of acceptance or an interview. "What does the future hold?" This is what we asked ourselves, but we could only wait.

The wait was made easier through our participation in the many school activities. There were football games, basketball games, record hops, dances, the county tourney, the sectional, school plays, musicals . . . and homework.

Ball State? I. U.? Purdue? Each college-bound senior is faced with the decision of which college to attend. Jenny Shank and Bruce Maeda scan the many college bulletins and yearbooks displayed in the guidance office.

For the 1964 graduates, Commencement was the climax of three high school years full of tears and laughter, victories and defeats, traditions and fads, classes and activities. Among these were being measured for caps and gowns, purchasing our cards and announcements, and conniving for a date for the Senior Prom and grad dance.

As "Senior Week" drew near, we devoted most of our time to studying and cramming for final exams and preparing and practicing for Commencement. We attended the Senior Prom with full realization that we had "made it."

With graduation, each will cherish the memories of the past three years. We were nervous as we faced graduation; yet, at the same time we anxiously awaited our diploma. We, the seniors of 1964, leave Warren Central, hopeful as we face the future and confident that we hold the key to success.

As Mrs. Othella Fink measures Tom McConnell for his cap and gown, Barbara Robertson, Mike King, Carol Leisure, and Mike Apple await their turn, visualizing various aspects of graduation.

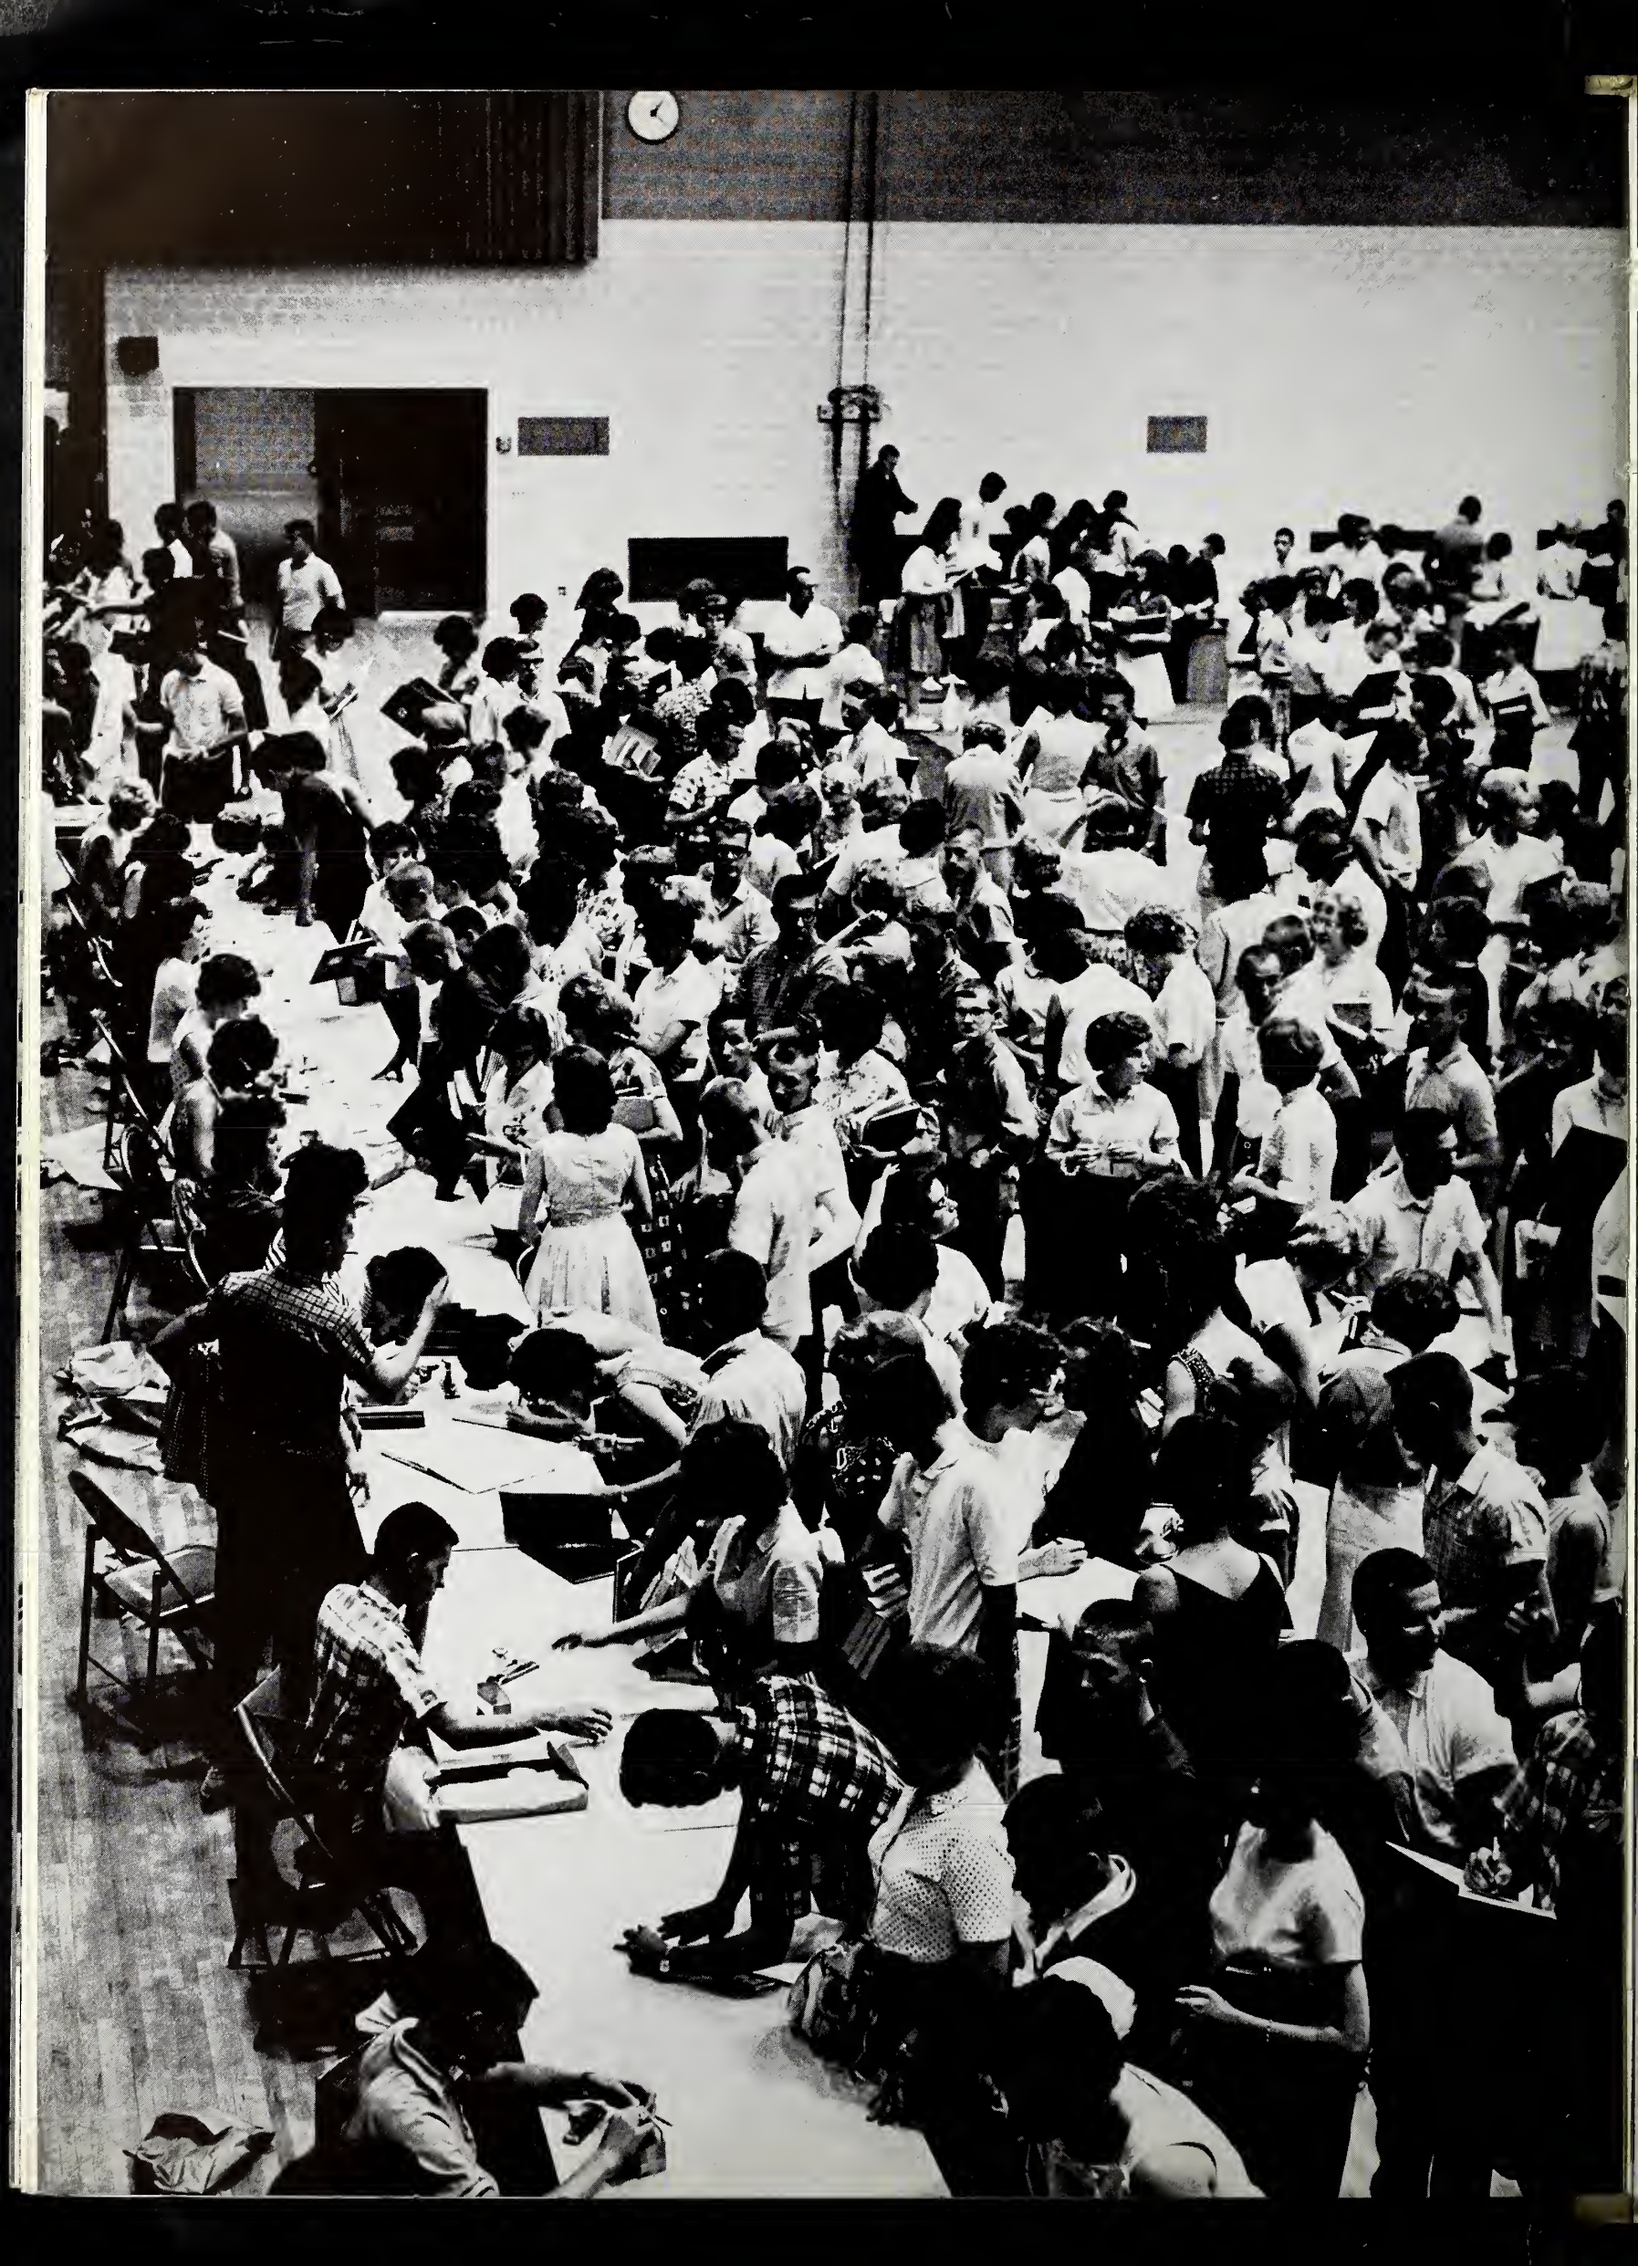
At the beginning of the year club presidents acted as guides to new students. Sophomores Sharon Mallott and Herb Reberger are greeted by Dwight Steele, president of the Junior Council.



What a long 45-minute-period homeroom would be if we had no clubs or extra-curricular activities to give us an excuse to vary this routine. Contrary to some beliefs, these activities represent more than just an interruption. They're really hard work—just ask any president—and challenging —try earning money for that special project—and interesting —like the speakers—and fun—remember the effigies?

Membership is an award for achievement on the newspaper or yearbook staffs. They must have done superior work and have a recommendation from the school publications advisors.

This club sponsors the sale of Mums before Homecoming in the fall. A publications dinner is given in the spring to announce the newspaper, yearbook, and news bureau staffs for the following year.

The National Forensic League is an honorary society for the advancement of speech arts. All members of the speech and debate team are eligible. A prospective member attends various contests all over the state working for twenty-five points which are determined by the placing won at the contest. This League is the largest honorary society.

Development of leadership, character, service, and scholarship is the goal of the National Honor Society. New members who qualify under these specifications are chosen by the faculty and are inducted into the society in the spring.

At their monthly meetings the Honor Society has various types of speakers, films, or discussions. It also participates in school sponsored activities such as the building of the Homecoming float and the building of an effigy for the pep rally before the Southport game. Furthermore, they raise funds for a scholarship for a worthy and deserving senior. Their money-making project this year was a spaghetti supper in the cafeteria before a basketball game.

Thespians is an honorary group of dramatics students. They serve as a board of directors for the Dramatics Club; officers for the two groups are the same.

To become a Thespian one must have a total of ten points which is equal to 100 hours work. The students may receive points in various ways. They may help on ticket, make-up, or stage crew committees or by performing. There are many members who have never acted on the stage. Initiation of candidates takes place twice a year.

The Student Council representatives are chosen by plurality vote in their respective homerooms. The Student Council sponsors all sock hops and some convocations during the year. As a service to students, the Council installed an outside phone for use after ball games. They are also sponsoring a tutoring service so that qualified students can help others who are having trouble.

The Senior and Junior Councils consist of a girl and a boy from each upper-class homeroom. They are chosen by pluarlity vote and may not be a member of the Student Council. The Senior Council plans activities of the Senior class. They select the color of the caps and gowns, make preparations for the Senior Prom and Graduation Dance, and choose the class announcements. The Junior Council plans the Junior Prom and selects the class rings.

'Better Than Ever' Describes Current Effort of

Judy Varner, news editor; Ron Steele, managing editor; and Oksana Petruniw, editor-in-chief, discuss an article for the OWL. The staff members turned to these three persons for editorial guidance and policy decisions.

By Owl staffers putting in many hours of work before school started, the Owl was ready to be distributed on the first day of school—a tradition that has been carried on during the past few years. The twenty staff members had completed a course in beginning journalism during their sophomore year to be eligible to work on the newspaper. Six others made up the News Bureau, which sends articles to suburban and downtown newspapers.

Highlights of the year included a visit from Woodview Junior High publications staffs, trips to various journalism conventions, celebration of the Owl's 39th birthday, and the expansion of the miniature owl collection. At present eight owls grace the Owl's Roost, where the major part of staff work is done.

In order to get accurate coverage, reporters were kept on their toes by the Big Three—the editor-in-chief, managing editor, and news editor. The Owl was delivered biweekly during sixth period without fail; even when school was cancelled by the snowstorm, nothing could deter the presses from rolling and the punctual distribution of the Owl at its appointed hour and location.

Page editors, Roger Bracket, Pam Boling, Cheryl Flick, and Theresa Ashby, are busy gathering information for their papers. Typing, filing, checking and editing are just as much a part of the newspaper work as are writing and reporting.

Richard Bothel and Lynda Reynolds, page two editors, examine the bulletin board in the publications office for their latest assignment as Karen Knudsen and Carolyn Loeper, feature editors, talk over an article for one of the OWL biweekly issues.

Owl and News Bureau

Sports page editors, John Boothby, Tom Cochrun, and Phil Ross, gather around the phone to conduct their business. Each one took his turn in reporting the sports events during the year to provide complete coverage in the Owl.

Mary Fran Dick, business manager, Kay Rengo, assistant, and Judith Cress, circulation and exchange manager, search in the files for the vital records on financial information and mailing lists.

Jonny Rood, photographer, Linda Settles, librarian, and Debbie Townsend, assistant circulation and exchange manager, look at the newest addition to the miniature owls on the Owl's Roost in the publications room during a free moment.

The News Bureau staff, Barbara Hughes, Kathy Prange, editor, Carol Fuller, Susan Schildmier, Linda Stultz, and Barbara McDermid, look at one of Warren's articles in the TEEN STAR. All the girls have articles appearing in the local newspapers.

Yearbook Staff Works

To the ordinary person, a wigwam might designate the home of an Indian; and in a sense, this is what a wigwam reminds a Warrenite of . . . the home of a Warrior, or actually, the home of all Warriors. The Wigwam at Warren unfolds a year of Warrior activities, with the help of copy-block, pictures, captions, and headlines. The Wigwam preserves the memories of the many dances, convocations, clubs, classmates, teachers, ballgames, pep sessions, classes, and all the various other activities which helped make this year worth remembering.

Claudia Dille and Kathy Keith, editors of the academic section, check a Pathfinder for information while Jane Hilkene and Dale Klein, editors of the opening section, consult the "dummy" for picture sizes.

John Fouts, Paul Price, Kathy Steuerwald, Robert Heisel, Maureen Thomas, Dale Snider, ad manager, Nancy Marchick, and Milsa Rash, members of the advertising staff, worked for the WIGWAM gathering community support by selling advertisments which appear in the back of the book.

Overtime To Finish '64 Annual on Schedule

Work on the Wigwam actually began before the 1963-64 school year did. During the summer Editor-in-chief Susan Hillier and Managing Editor Pauline Stites attended the Indiana University High School Journalism Institute where they sketched a rough draft of what would eventually become a Wigwam. The theme of the book was decided upon and ideas for expansions and improvements were planned. The final dummy, a detailed layout of all the pages, was planned and drawn up by Mr. Richard Brier. This was used for reference during the year.

Once school began, the staff had their work cut out for them, and they embarked upon the long, but fun-filled task of putting the Wigwam together. Pictures had to be taken, copy, cutlines, and heads had to be written, and the words "hard work" and "deadlines" became very familiar to the twenty members of the Wigwam staff.

The 1962 and 1963 Wigwam have received top All-American ratings by the National Scholastic Press Association. The 1964 staff worked diligently to repeat the honor for the Wigwam.

Editors of the faculty, senior, and underclassmen sections, Barbara Ingersoll, Marilee Craig, Nancy Copp, Mike Meyer, Mary Schakel, Judy Brown, and Ann Bickerton, gather around the work table to discuss problems with their sections.

Sports section managers, (standing) John Hilkene and Chip McClintock, and subscription and activities section managers, (seated) Betty Little, Linda Burris, Kay Bowman, and Nancy Little, work on their respective section in the WIGWAM room.

Officers of Junior Red Cross, Nancy Ferguson, June Pride, president; Mary Dietz, Kathy Poole, and Della Monday take gifts to unfortunate children in the hospitals.

Shown with the Alpha-Hi-Y trophy are officers Tom Cochrum, Mike Nye, Willett Fischer, president; Norman Nelson, and Jess Hubbard. The trophy was started this year.

Warren Clubs Serve School, Community with

Hi-C officers Joann Peterman, Steve Stroeh, Charles Yotter, Jim Beckham, Nancy Coates, president; Gunars Janelsins, Jerry King, and Lynn Sprowl box Thanksgiving food for a needy family.

Steve Watt and Judy Weston are showing new student Pam Miller (far left) how morning devotions given by the Hi-C club are broadcast over the public address system each morning.

Junior Warrenette officers, Linda Faulkenberg, sergeant-at-arms; Kathy McKinney, secretary-treasurer; Sue Workman, president; Kay Reno, chaplain; and Pat Strane, vice-president, make decorations.

Extra Time and Effort

Alpha Hi-Y, the YMCA-affiliated organization for upper-class boys, sponsored the March of Dimes drive at Warren with a "drag race" between classes. Each lunch period for a week the students placed their coins and bills on the "drag strips" laid out on the table in the cafeteria. The total amount collected was over $300. The sophomores won a trophy for the highest contribution.

In its aim to serve others, the Red Cross Club sponsored a Christmas gift campaign for children at the juvenile center. All Warren students were asked to place gifts under the Christmas tree in the foyer.

By sponsoring morning devotions the Hi-C Bible Club promotes a better understanding of Christian living among Warren students. The club also has speakers at monthly meetings, attends rallies, and sponsored a Feed-a-Family project.

Warrenettes, a service club open to all girls, each year sponsors the school's big dances—the Fall Fantasy and the Mistletoe Magic. However, the highlight of the year for all Warrenettes is the Valentine Tea. On this occasion daughters present their mothers to school administrators, salute them at a special program, and ply them with goodies.

Future Clubs Promote Careers for Members

Officers of FTA are (standing) Carol Schakel, parliamentarian; Sue Hillier, treasurer; Tom Cochrun, president; (seated) Melva Sissom, vice-president; Susan Ulm, historian; Mary Ann Banta, librarian; and Gloria Norton, secretary.

The Future Teachers of America aims to acquaint the members with the teaching profession. The club also tries to study the traits and aptitudes which are basic for successful teaching. Besides having various speakers at meetings on the teaching profession, some of the members get their feet wet through the cadet teaching program for seniors.

The Future Doctors Club, now in its second year, is for all students interested in medicine. The club activities include films, guest speakers, demonstrations, and field trips to various aspects of medicine. As one of their projects the club had a no-smoking campaign, because of the government's findings that smoking leads to cancer.

The members of the Future Nurses Club have had speakers this year from Methodist and Michel Reece Hospitals and from Indiana University describing the requirements and opportunities in the nursing profession. The girls also took a field trip to Fort Benjamin Harrison where they saw a film and learned opportunities for nurses in the Army. For the club's service project members made 350 favors for patients at Community Hospital.

Officers of FDA are Gregg Munson, vice-president; Kathy Veteto, president; and Carolyn Wilhelm, secretary-treasurer.

Nurses' officers are Ann Westfall, president; Patty Palmer, treasurer; Tonja Bowman, vice-president; and Barbara Martz, secretary.

Officers of Future Farmers of America are Dan Lee, reporter; Don Abbott, secretary; Larry Bade, president; Gary Greene, vice-president; and Roger Pratt, sergeant-at-arms. The treasurer of the club, Louie Brans, is not pictured. The club meets once a month to discuss farming problems.

Many Students Obtain Training Outside Class

Boys from the agriculture classes further their interests by joining the Future Farmers of America. Last fall the club conducted a hay and grain show at Warren Central. Spring found members trying their skills in judging contests. These events which included livestock and crop judging provided valuable experience for all of the club members who participated.

The Business Club provides opportunities for business education students to get acquainted with their profession. Following these aims the business club members took a trip to the Indiana branch of the FBI. The club's main project was the operation of a coat check at all home basketball games.

Members of the Future Homemakers of America, a nationally affiliated organization, learn ways to be efficient managers of their future homes through guest speakers and demonstrations. These programs included a hair styling demonstration and a guest speaker, Joan Crawford of WFBM who discussed with the girls possible careers in home economics for their future years.

Business Club officers are Sherrie Borcherding, Linda McIntire, Lynn Curry, president; Jim Cahill, Terry Mohr, Tom McConnel, and Linda Stafford, seated at the typewriter.

Speech Team and Dramatics Club Cop Honors

Debaters at Warren Central, Mike Frazier, Dave Simpson, Anne Fisher, Roger Brackett, Don Limbach, and Bob Philips show the trophies won by the debaters and speech team members at various meets. Warren debaters placed second in the state tournament.

The varsity debate team made up of six members had a very successful year. Two of their major wins during the season were the Terre Haute-Centennial Debate and the South Bend Central Debate. The daily after-school practices and Mr. Harold Wilfong's excellent coaching can be accredited for their outstanding season. In February the team began tedious preparation for the sectional, hoping for state and national honors for the Warren debaters.

The Dramatics Club at Warren Central has been very active this year. The first project climaxed in November with the presentation of "The Twelve Angry Men" and "The Twelve Angry Women." All the cast members were selected from the club. The Christmas Convocation was also sponsored by the Dramatics Club. Aside from all this activity, the club meetings, planned by the Thespian Board of Directors, are spent hearing speakers, initiating members into the National Thespian Society, and presenting various one-act plays and skits before the club for their entertainment and education.

The officers of the Dramatics Club are Kathy Melvin, president; Kay Bowman, secretary, and Kay Reno, vice-president. They are also the officers of Thespians, honorary dramatics club.

Officers of the History Club, Don Limbach, president; David Spolyar, vice-president; and Jenny Shank, secretary, arrange the history display case to show the story of the history of Warren Central as one of the club's many projects during the year.

The History Club has designed numerous displays for their showcase in the middle of the upper hall this year. Topics ranging from the history of Warren's activities to the history of communism has been presented. The History Club highlighted the year with a field trip to cinerama to see "How The West Was Won."

The French Club whose aims are to promote interest in French culture and customs became a member of the French National Honor Society this year. Mr. James Lurtey, a guest at one of their fall meetings, presented his slides of his travels in France. The club was also busy making arrangements for the Language Banquet in the spring.

The Spanish Club started off the year in October with an initiation of members and a picnic. Slides of many Spanish-speaking countries, such as Guatemala, Mexico, Spain, and Ecuador, were also shown at various meetings. Mexican dinners and a Spanish Hootenanny have also been activities of the busy Spanish Club this year.

Academic Clubs Offer Pupils Wide Knowledge

The French Club officers Sam Groniger, treasurer; Mike Baldwin, vice-president; Mary Fran Dick, secretary; and Mary Schakel, president, look at one of the many French magazines available to all French students interested in learning about France.

The Spanish Club officers, Sharon Smithers, president; Jim Beckham, vice-president; and Leslie Dallas, secretary, show a few Mexican souvenirs brought back by Leslie Dallas from a recent trip to help the club members learn more of the culture of Mexico.

Ronnie Steele, president of the Driver's Club, and Mary Fran Dick, a member of the Safety Council, check a car through the safety check during the club's annual campaign.

The Drivers Club is composed of students who drive to school or possess an operator's license. The club tries to stress safety and the importance of courtesy and respect for others on the road. The Drivers Club also tries to familiarize teenage drivers with state laws and common sense in driving. Their sponsor Mr. Alan Miedema trys to help them by conducting safety checks in the student parking lot.

The newest club at Warren is the German Club, formed in November. Because of the many clubs meeting during school, German Club members demonstrated their enthusiasm by staying after school for meetings.

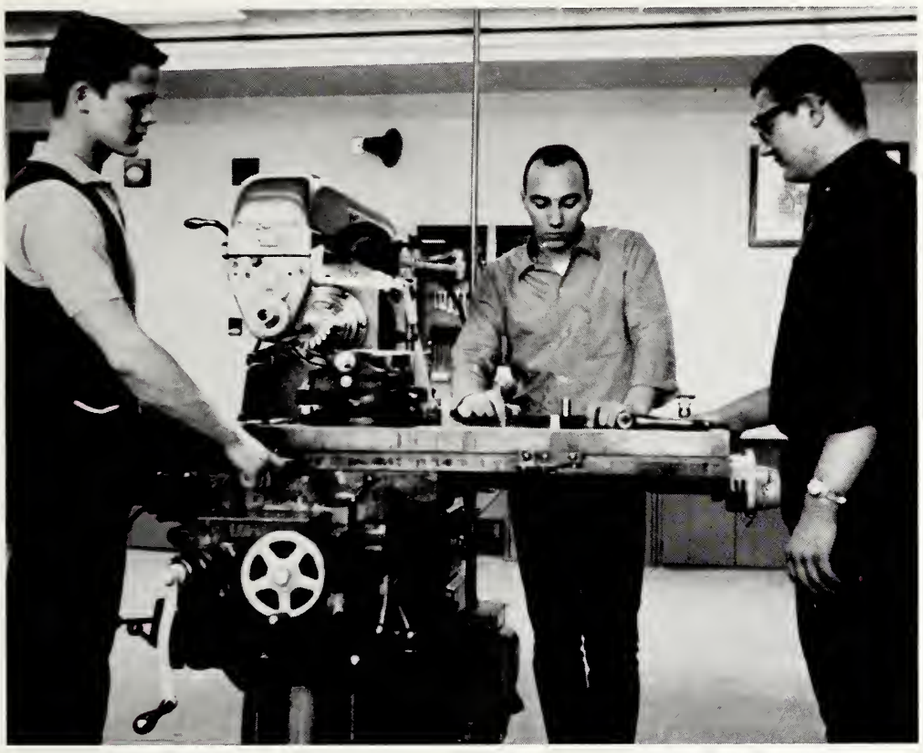
Library club members know how to work and party at the same time. At their parties they process new books for the shelves. They also took presents to the Children's Guardian Home at Christmas time. This spring they had a car wash for their money-making project and took a field trip to the Butler Library and State Library. At one of their meetings they heard a speaker from the Young People's Division of the Indianapolis Public Library.

Each Club's Main Goal; Student Participation

Mary Ruth Koch, president of the Library Club; Susan Moore, reporter; Sandie Cook, vice-president; Susan Schildmier, secretary; and Sandy Abrams, historian, work at checking the books in the library. The officers, besides doing these duties, also process books to help Warren students.

Officers of the newly formed German Club, Bob Philips, treasurer; Jerry King, vice-president; John Folkening, president; and Ann Bickerton, secretary, put up the colorful replica of the flag of Germany in the classroom. By forming this club the members hope to learn more about the people of Germany.

Members Achieve While Preparing for Future



The Industrial Arts Club officers, Bob Parker, secretary-treasurer; Bob Reed, president; and John McKenna, vice-president, check out a piece of machinery in Warren's machinery shop. Their club aims to promote high craftsmenship in the school.

The 4-H Junior Leader Club helps provide contact with 4-H members during the school year. Junior Leaders are advanced 4-H members who contribute leadership to their own or other clubs. In June when other Warrenites are getting ready for a vacation, 4-H members are lining up projects for the summer. Some attend the state round-up at Purdue. Many will return in September with ribbons from their county fairs and often a citation from the state fair.

The Industrial Arts Club is a local organization created for those students who want to demonstrate further interest in the industrial arts. The club aims at promoting creativity, developing craftsmanship, and encouraging student participation. Among its projects and activities during the past year was the selling of black and gold derbies for use at the County Tourney. Loyal Warrenites purchased these derbies, contributing to support the Warren basketball team and to the achievements of the club.

Junior Leader officers, Sherri Steele, vice-president; Don Abbott, secretary; Pam Mumaugh, treasurer; and Jerry King, president, depart for a meeting.

Hobbies and Careers Contribute to Activities

Rick Reinhardt, vice-president of Radio Club, sends Morse code as Mike Cox, president, and Jim Johnson, secretary-treasurer, look on.

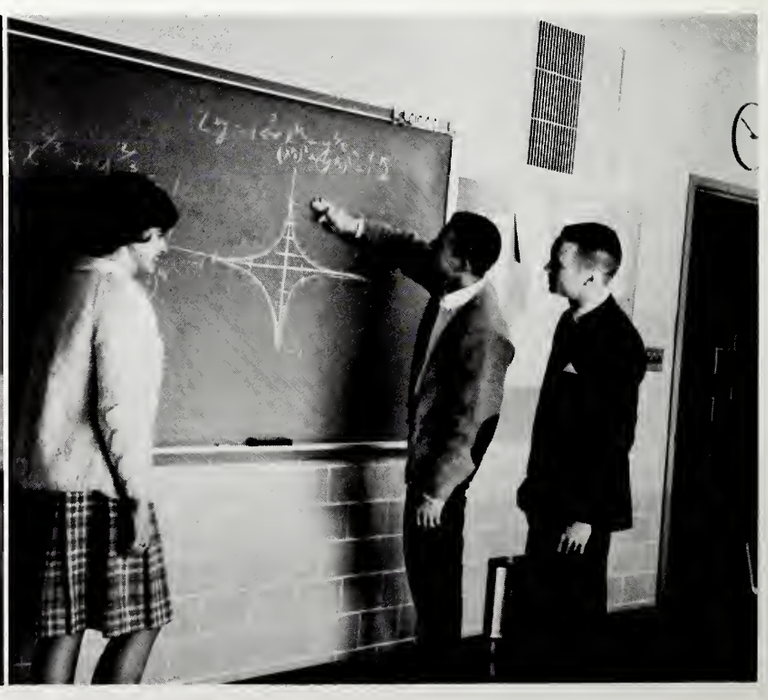
The Warren Amateur Radio Club strives to promote interest in radios, the radio code, and in the building and operating of Warren's own "ham" short-wave station—WA9BW. The evening meetings usually include operating the radio station and listening to speakers. New members spend many hours practicing the Morse Code. Once they pass a proficiency test, they can receive a "ham" radio license to operate the radio.

The Science Club at Warren tries to bring scientific materials beyond the scope of the text-book to each of its members. Key speakers and tours are among the activities that go on at their meetings. Projects for the Science Fair are one of the many undertakings of the year for all the members.

Mu Alpha Theta is a national honorary math society. Many of its members are planning future careers in this field. Mu Alpha Theta members keep the math display cases filled with interesting exhibits. The club also heard speakers on a number of different subjects.

Science Club officers Maureen Thomas, vice-president, Dave Spolyar, president, and Carole Schroeder, secretary, carefully examine a measuring device in the chemistry laboratory.

Mu Alpha Theta officers Edie Steiniger, secretary, John Hilkene, president, and Tom Nidiffer, vice-president and treasurer, try to solve difficult mathematics problem.



of Warren Clubs

Pawns, knights, queens, and castles are all words familiar to the members of the Warren Central Chess Club. This club, which is open to all students, tries to aid them in the power of concentration and to teach them a fascinating game. The members learn the finer skills of chess by competing with one another at meetings.

The Scuba Club, one of the newest organizations at Warren, promotes interest in the sport of skin-diving and safety through instruction and regulation. These amateur skin-divers travel all over the state to participate in "dive" contests. Speakers also inform the members of new equipment at meetings. One of the year's first money-making projects, selling activities calendars, was sponsored by the Scuba Club.

The Photo Club is a division of the audio-visual department. The members take pictures of their own choosing and then use the facilities of the audio-visual department at Warren to develop their film. The members work together to improve their technical abilities.

Mike Harris, president of the Chess Club, watches Tom Wolfe, vice-president, in a puzzling move during a chess game. They and other members play chess every Wednesday after school.

Scuba Club officers Bill Murphy, secretary; Greg Arnold, vice-president; Dean Fields, treasurer; and Carolyn Wilhelm, president, are shown selling Warren Central date calendars which was the club's main project for the school year.

From Students' View, Warren Booster Groups

PEP BAND—Warren's Pep Band boosted the school's enthusiasm by playing at the home basketball games. They also played for the Warriorettes' and the Majorettes' pre-game routines.

"We've got spirit!" Pep Block along with the Lettermen's Club and Pep Band join together at every home game to tell visitors, alumni, and fellow Warrenites just how much spirit they have.

The Lettermen's Club sponsors the Fall, Winter, and Spring Sports Queens and serve as ushers during every home game. Black and gold Warrior license plates are sold each year by the club, too.

Adding that extra touch to cheers and school songs is the Pep Band. When the Pep Block meets on Friday mornings, the 33-member Pep Band often join them to work out new routines and polish up old ones. They play for pep sessions and provide music for the Warriorette drills.

Pep Block started a spirit-building, money-making project this year in the form of booster ribbons. These black and gold ribbons are made by various members for those ever important games. Discipline plays a part of school spirit, too. Every Pep Block member must attend each home game or must have a substitute to proclaim "Sp-ir-it is our cry".

PEP BLOCK—This year's Pep Block was loaded with spirit as it cheered at all home games. It also followed the team to the Butler Fieldhouse for the county tourney and the Sectional.

Come Full of Spirit

Together the Pep Block officers and Lettermen's Club officers form the Warren "W" symbolizing spirit. These organizations work together to boost good sportsmanship in the school.

Pep Block girls, Karen Walker, Bonnie Jones, Nancy Little, and Pam Sink, help make the booster ribbons before the tourney. The money from the ribbons went to buy pins for senior girls with a year or more service in the Pep Block.

Music Swells as Warrenites Enjoy Busy Season

Performances and concerts throughout the state kept Warren's orchestra in tune this year. The orchestra attended a concert at Bloomington with five other schools. There the orchestras met for practice sessions and in combination presented a concert. New Albany was also the site of another concert in March. During January and February Warren orchestra members brought honors home from the District and State Solo and Ensemble Contests.

During the school year Warren's orchestra has presented outstanding concerts for the community's enjoyment. In March they presented their annual "Evening in Hi-Fi" and played a special concert for the Butler University School of Music.

The orchestra officers do much to assist Mr. Bruce Fowler, director. The president conducts the group in his absence. The officers must also see that the chairs and other equipment are arranged properly. The librarian keeps the music files organized.

Orchestra officers, Dick Haynes, librarian; Dan Moriarity, secretary-treasurer; Leroy Williams, president; and Roxie Atkinson, assistant librarian, all gather around the grand piano.

These band members must practice after school.

Warren's newest band, the Stage Band, is an outstanding show unit. It has performed before the student body at the Band Convocation. The Stage Band has also become a distinct part of the all-school Christmas Party. The band members play both popular and old-time favorites for the students dancing. Mr. Jim White selects the Stage Band from those band members that have outstanding ability at reading and improvisation. Several band members can play more than one instrument with skill.

The Madrigals are a select group of male and female vocalists at Warren. The members travel many places to entertain church groups and social clubs in the community. Among other functions the group has performed before the P.T.A. Council, the 4-H Achievement program, the Delta Zeta Sorority Dinner, and the Indiana Association of Public School Superintendents. This year the Madrigal girls wore brown dresses with a gold pin and white gloves. The Madrigal boys wore tan jackets with dark slacks.

To Buy New Uniforms

The Band, Warriorettes, and Majorettes all strive to provide good music and entertainment for Warrenites at home ball games. During the football season they put on various pre-games and half-time performances using different formations. On several occasions the Warriorettes did special routines with the band.

This year the Warriorettes were reorganized by the Band director. The all-girl drill group was directed by Miss Ellen Rae Sielaff, a teacher at Butler.

Band members found it necessary this year to buy new uniforms. The band sponsored an all-school popcorn sale and solicited the help of all students. Each volunteer was signed up to sell five bags of unpopped corn. Prizes were awarded to top salesmen and to the top homeroom from each class. These prizes were presented at a special convocation given by the band. Mr. Jim White, the band director, said the school's support had brought the purchase of the new uniforms much closer.

Songsters Develop Skills

"Do, Re, Mi" were the happy notes struck by vocal music groups as they rehearsed for performances before their school and their community.

This year the Warrenaires went caroling at the Glendale Shopping Center. They also sang for the Christmas program, "Sounds of Christmas," the Thanksgiving and Easter school convocations, and for the Senior Baccalaureate. The Warrenaires were decked out in new robes of maroon with glossy white stoles.

The Trebletones, for their share of performing, sang for the Officers' Wives Club Christmas Luncheon at Fort Benjamin Harrison. They also performed at the Christmas program and Y Men's Club.

The Girls' Choir made up largely of underclass girls performed for the Christmas Program and for "Young America Sings" on station WIBC.

All the groups participated in the County Choral Festival in Speedway and the Spring Concert held in the Warren Central Auditorium. Many of them were in this year's "Moods and Melodies" and convocations during the past school year.

To a spectator sitting on his frozen feet or to the Pep Block member roasting in a hot blouse, it may look easy; but to the player, it's a different story. Sometimes he's a hero or sometimes he's a bum, depending on the mood of the fans, the breaks of the game, or the agility of his feet. He proudly wears a letter-sweater and furtively hunts his name in the paper. Glory may be hard work, but it's worth it.

Twenty juniors will return for the 1964 season on the gridiron.

Spirited Tribe Has Roller-Coaster Grid Season

"Big Green, Pooh! Pooh!"

"Warriors tough! How tough? Real tough!"

Coach Dave Shaw's Warriors showed their spirit with these and other war cries during practice sessions and before important games. The tribe maintained high morale throughout the ups and downs of the season.

The Warriors' strength should have resulted in a more impressive record; but in compiling the 4-won and 5-lost slate the gridmen provided many exciting moments for the spirited Warren followers.

In the pre-season predictions many observers counted the Warriors out of the Marion County title chase, since there were only six returning lettermen from last year's county championship team. However, Warren gridders kept their county record clean until the final game with Southport.

Warren got off to a fast start with lop-sided victories in the first two games. After this the tribe trailed off and wound up with their first losing season in three years. One of the biggest reasons for the 4-5 record was the team's lack of consistency.

Pro Gee, 46 Power, on hike is the call as head football coach Dave Shaw (second from right) diagrams one of the Warriors many plays for assistant coaches (left to right) Leo Hine, Paul Conwell, and Walt Wintin.

While Posting 4-5 Slate

All-county end Tom Sponcil snares a pass deep in Cardinal territory during the Southport game. The Leavitt-Sponcil combination clicked for good yardage throughout the season.

Appearing to be headed the wrong way, Scoop Taylor was actually spun around while being tackled during this action between Martinsville and Warren as the Warriors popped the lid off the 1963 season.

Still they won the games that counted and battled for the county title down to the final game.

The Warriors opened the season at home against Martinsville and drubbed the Artesians by a 43-0 count. Grabbing a quick 16-0 lead by the end of the first quarter, the Tribe coasted to victory from there. John Woodburn brought the fans to their feet twice with touchdown jaunts of more than fifty yards.

The following week, the gridmen opened their defense of the county championship against Ben Davis. After a slow start, the Warriors rolled to a 26-6 win over the outclassed Giants.

The Tribe tasted defeat for the first time the following week at the hands of the Carmel Greyhounds by a 7-6 score. Taking the opening kick-off and marching to a quick touchdown, Carmel converted the extra point which proved to be the difference. The Warriors then retaliated equally as fast, but the PAT try failed. From then on it was a defensive battle as both teams had numerous chances to score but couldn't quite punch it across.

The Tribe's next encounter was the game with Lawrence Central's Bears. The fired-up Bears almost spoiled the homecoming before Warren dug in and held on for a hard fought 14-7 victory, maintaining a 2-0 slate in county competition.

Arlington's Golden Knights hit hard and fast in the next Warren game and never let up as they grabbed an 18 point lead. The Tribe's lone tally came in the fourth period.

The Warriors then faced North Central in a key county battle. Though the Panthers were favored, the Warriors scored an impressive 12-0 victory to spoil North Central's homecoming festivities.

Junior end Johnny Cazee snares a pass from quarterback Larry Wetherald in the Warriors 43-0 romp over Martinsville. The pint-sized Cazee was one of Warren's top pass receivers.

Scoop Taylor is gang-tackled on a drive into the left side of the line after taking a hand-off from junior quarterback Larry Wetherald during the Southport game.

An Artesian ball carrier is stopped in his tracks by junior tackle Steve Fischer during third quarter action. Defensive backs Bill Burgess and Roger Casey move in to lend assistance.

Senior left guard, Chip McClintock and fellow Warriors watch closely some of the action on the gridiron, hoping to hear the coach call out their names with orders to "get in there!"

Sophomore Reserves Record Average Season

Senior student manager Richard Yantis seems to have hit a snag while explaining to his assistants how to keep track of the equipment and team records.

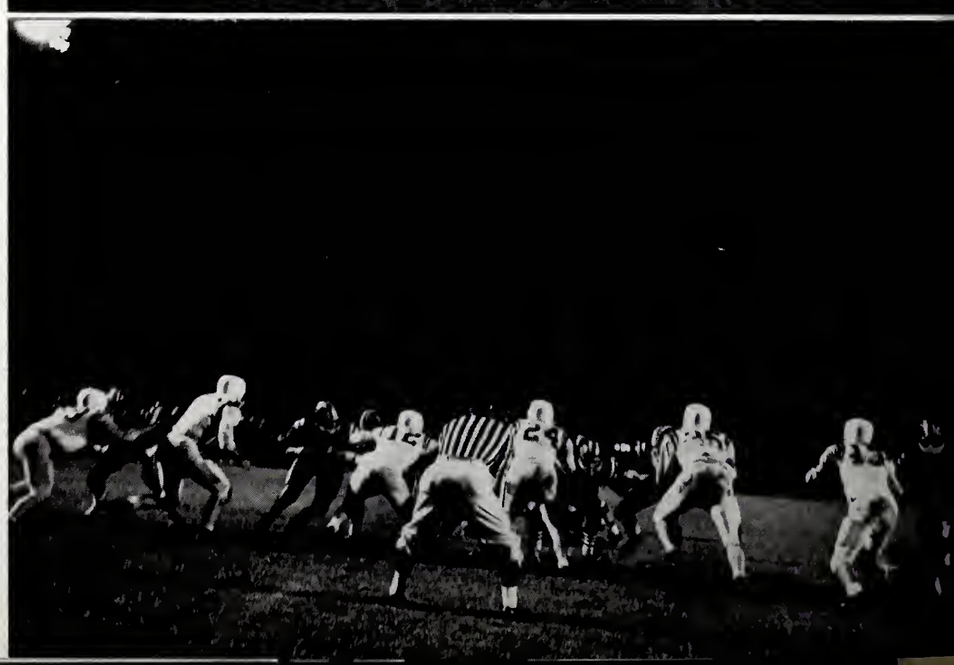
Quarterback Jon Leavitt rolls out while end Tom Sponcil and back Scoop Taylor head downfield during the Warrior's encounter with the Tech Titans. The Warriors, playing one of their most spirited games, almost upset the favored Titans, losing in the final minutes, 14-13.

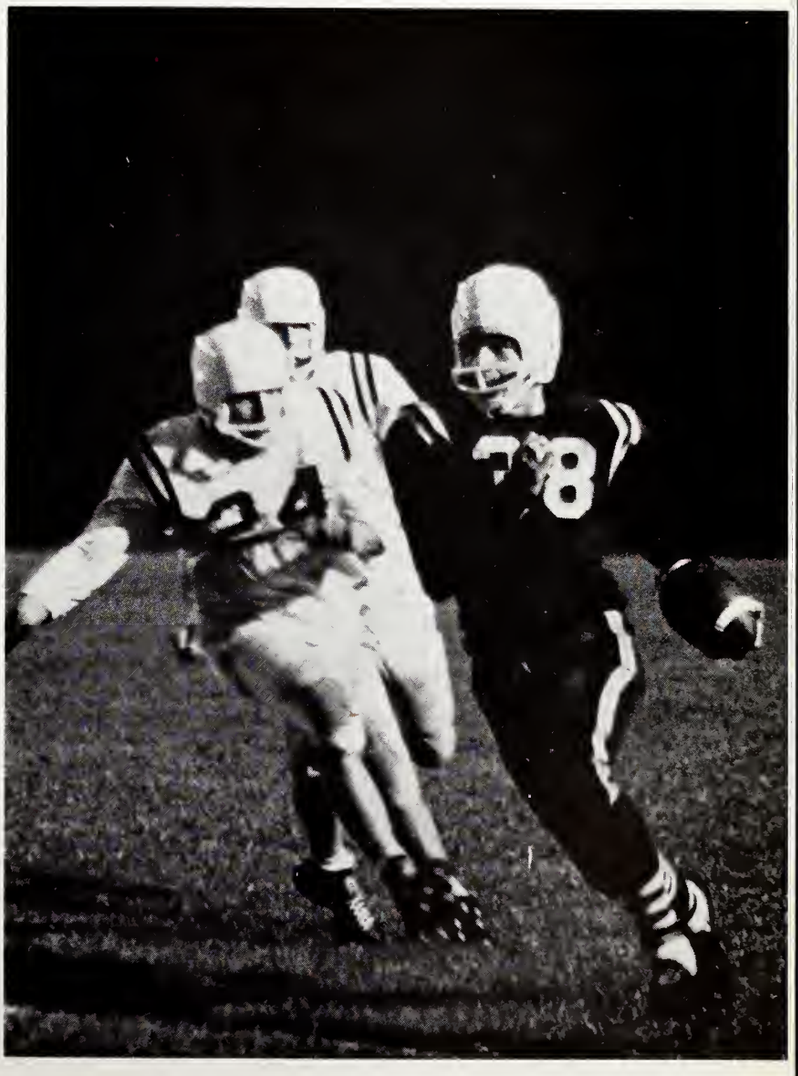
Bill Burgess, junior fullback, skirts end for good yardage before being brought down by a Lawrence tackler during the Warren Homecoming game. A large crowd turned out to see the Warriors defeat the Bears 14-7 and retain the New York Central Railroad traveling trophy.



Warren's defensive forward line, one of the Warrior's better points all season, charges for the ball carrier during the Warren-Southport tussle.

An opponent's kick-off finds junior back Rick Guyer on the receiving end during a Warrior home game.

Breaking through the opponent's line, Ron Breeden and Craig Hawks close in on the Lawrence ball carrier late in second quarter.



The tribe went on the war path against Tech's Titans Friday, Oct. 18, and for three quarters they played the kind of ball they were capable of playing all year. At the third period, the Warriors had a 13-0 lead over the highly favored Titans, but halfback Gene Akers broke loose for two TD's in the final period and Tech eked out a 14-13 victory.

The Howe Hornets, pulled off one of the season's biggest upsets in the next game as they won a hard fought contest, 6-0. Howe scored on the last play of the first-half when Tom Ott picked up a loose fumble and raced 85 yards to pay-dirt.

In the final game Warren lost the county championship to Southport's highly-touted Cardinals, 26-0. The game was much closer than the score showed as the tribe had many scoring opportunities.

The Warriors fine defensive unit was led by guard Gunars Janelsins, end Tom Sponcil, and most valuable linenian Ron Breeden. Janelsins and Sponcil both made the all-county team while Breeden paced the team with 97 tackles. Quarterback Jon Leavitt, Sponcil, and halfback Scoop Taylor carried most of the offensive load. Halfback Bruce Little was named most valuable player for his fine all-around play on both offense and defense.

play on both offense and defense. Forming the nucleus of a fine squad for 1964 will be Craig Hawks, Ed Clemmer, Bill Burgess, and Larry Wetherald, in addition to Taylor and Breeden, as only 13 seniors will be graduated.

Varsity cheers this year were led by (top) Janice Anderson and Judy Varner, (center) Pris Strane and Pam Rehl, and (bottom) Nancy Steele and Donna Cole.

The six varsity cheerleaders of 1963-64 were Janice Anderson, Donna Cole, Pam Rehl, Nancy Steele, Pris Strane, and Judy Varner. These girls passed the first screening committee and went before the student body to display their skills. The ten chosen by the students then appeared before a committee made up of club presidents and members of the faculty. The girls chosen attended two cheerleader conferences during the summer.

While at the Smith-Walbridge Camp at Syracuse, Indiana, they won two first place ribbons, one second, and one third. They also attended a session at Indiana University.

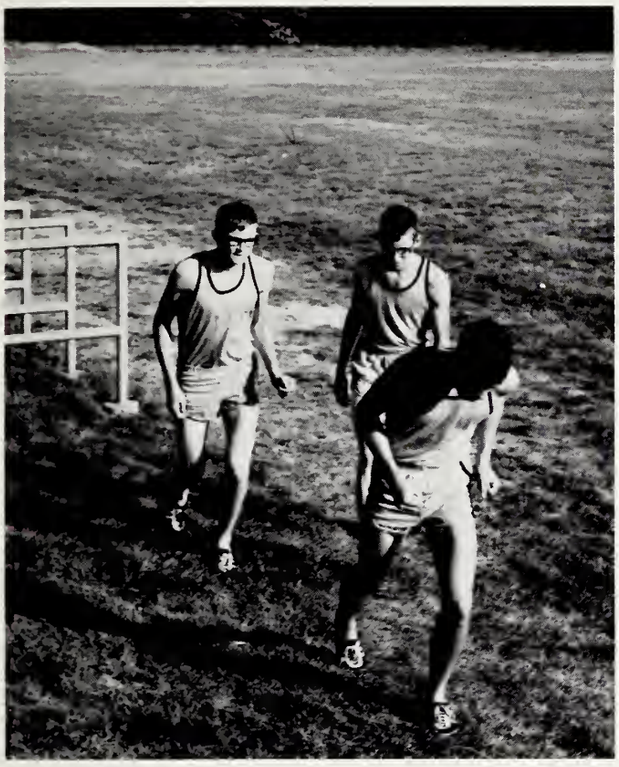
The reserve cheerleaders were also chosen by the student body. Both groups had regular practice sessions on Wednesday after school and many extra practices in order to prepare for special events.

The girls spent much of their free time working on posters and placing them around the school to boost the athletic teams to victory. Another project of the cheerleaders and the Pep Block was the booster ribbons which they made for important football and basketball games and sold to the student body. The girls were responsible for a sheet which all students signed to boost the team to victory.

Varsity Six and Reserve Four Cheer for Score

Reserve Cheerleaders for 1963-1964 were junior Pat Strane and sophomores Nena Andorn, Mary Lou Nichols, and Joy Henard.

Warren Harriers Place Second in Sectional



Varsity cross country runners Phil Ross, Jerry Arvin, and Arnold McIntosh have just completed the two miles in a practice session.

The 1963 version of the Warren Central cross country team finished second in the sectional behind Shortridge's Blue Devils. Thus they became the first Warrior team to advance to the regionals of the state cross country meet.

In regular season competition, the Warriors were victorious over Scecina, Greenfield, Carmel, Tech, Arlington, and Manual. The Warren runners met defeat at the hands of Beech Grove, Lawrence Central, Southport, North Central, and Arlington.

Warren placed sixth out of twleve teams at the Washington Invitational and also sixth out of twelve teams at the Howe Invitational. At Shortridge they finished a very good fifth out of twenty-two teams, while at the Southport Invitational they finished only twelfth out of eighteen.

Jerry Arvin set a new school record with a run of 10:12 which broke junior Arnold McIntosh's record of 10:17. McIntosh earlier had broken Rayford Sissom's record of 10:22 set in 1960. Other top runners included seniors Mike Melvin, and Ken Kendall, juniors Phil Ross and Ed Norcutt, and sophomore Jim Bacon.

Warriors Give Kirkpatrick Finest Season Yet

The Warren Central basketball team enjoyed one of its finest years ever this past season. The Warriors compiled a 16-8 won and lost record and highlighted the season by winning the Marion County Championship. The tall and talented Warriors had many good games and some not so good. Against Howe and Speedway they proved their ability to produce under pressure, but against Manual and Beech Grove, nothing clicked.

The Warriors got the ball rolling by opening the season with an 82-65 victory over Martinsville. In their next encounter with fourth-rated Tech, Warren couldn't find the range in the first quarter and fell seventeen points behind. That proved to be the margin of victory as the Warriors matched the Titans in the final three stanzas.

The Tribe made one of their finest showings of the season against Decatur Central's Hawks. Warren was one of two county teams to beat the hot-shooting Hawks, who lost only four all season. The Warriors again had trouble in the opening segment of the Washington game and were unable to overcome the deficit in the final two periods. The Continentals, fifth-ranked for a while among Indiana high school quintets, defeated the Warriors 66-47.

Warren Central edged out Ben Davis the following week 61-58 in a real thriller. Seniors Jim Horton and Tom Sponcil pulled the game out of the fire in the final seconds, with a bucket by Sponcil and two vital free throws by Horton.

One of the most unusual games all year was the Warren-Zionsville encounter. The smaller Eagles played control ball but couldn't get the job done as the Tribe won 28-22. The Columbus Bulldogs lived up to their Number One billing by smashing the Warriors 99-49 at Columbus.

The Warriors enjoyed one of their most satisfying victories by trouncing the rival Southport Cardinals 84-46 the following week. This 38-point margin of victory was the widest of the year for Warren. Homecoming activities were dampened by the Tribe's 66-57 loss to Arlington. The next evening saw the Warriors eke out a 59-56 overtime decision against Howe in a thrilling Fieldhouse battle.

A panoramic view is shown of the floor action at the start of the homecoming game with Arlington.

This year the Warriors advanced further in the sectional tourney than they had in recent years. After winning over Ben Davis and North Central, the Tribe lost to Crispus Attucks in the semi-final round of the Indianapolis Sectional.

The Warriors accomplished many things this year as a team, but there were also many outstanding individual efforts. The scoring punch was provided mostly by senior Doug Wininger who accumulated 446 points for an 18.6 average. Tom Sponcil and Gunars Janelsins also averaged in double figures with 14.3 and 10.8 averages, respectively.

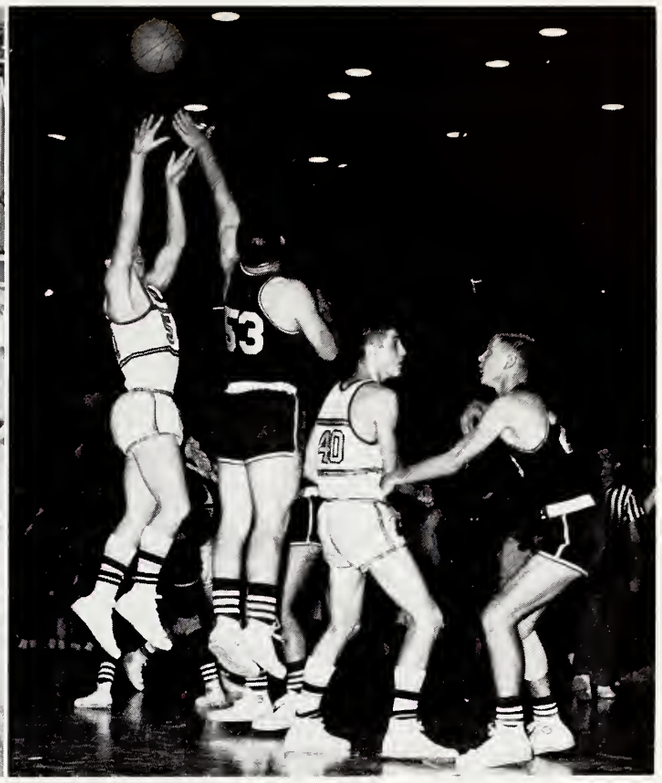
Free-throw shooting honors also went to Wininger, who pumped them in at an .841 clip. Doug set a national high school record by sinking 51 consecutive free throws before missing. Another important facet of the game, rebounding, was dominated by seniors Janelsins and Sponcil, each pulling down 242. Leading the team in assists for the season was Tom Sponcil with 101.

Junior John Woodburn and Doug Wininger were named to the All-Sectional team for their outstanding play in the tournament. Woodburn really developed during the latter stages of the season and was a strong rebounder as well as scorer.

In early season action with the Tech Titans, Tom Sponcil gives a little extra effort to outreach a Tech defender for a tip-in and two points for the Warriors.

Outstanding senior guard Doug Wininger pumps for two points during the Warriors' 75-70 loss to North Central.

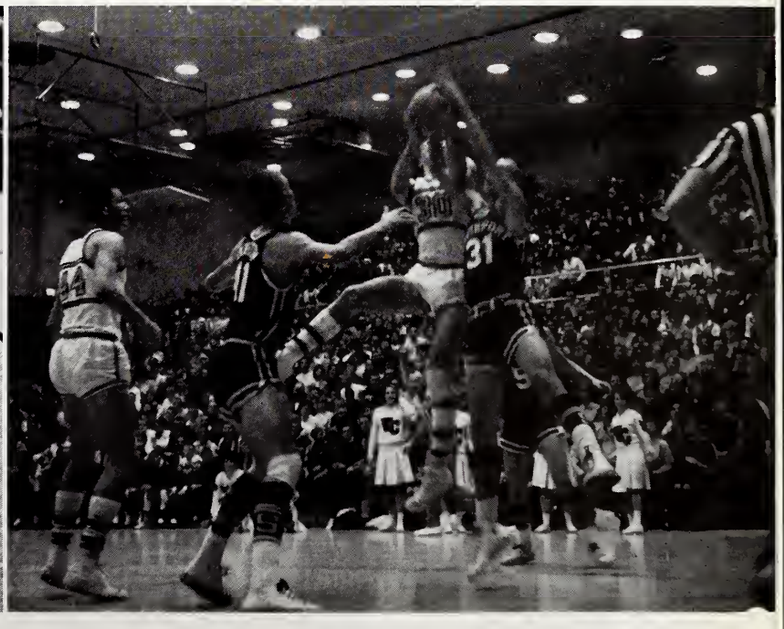
Senior Gunars Janelsins, who played forward and center, arcs one of his corner shots above the hands of an Arlington defender; however, his efforts were in vain as Warren lost 66-57.

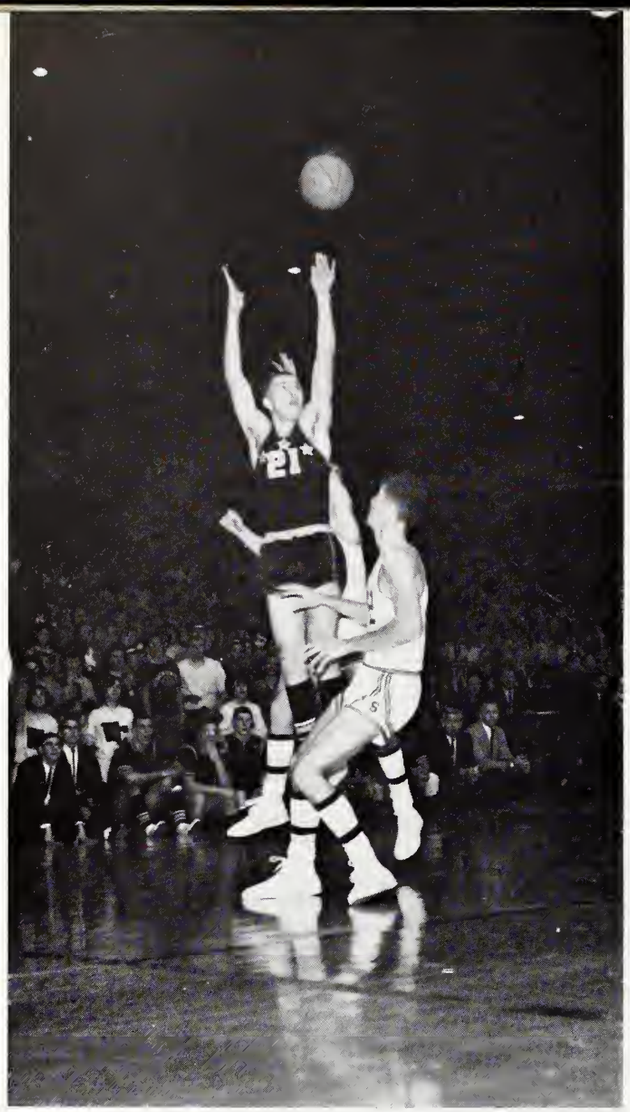


Senior guard Jim Horton lets go with a jump shot, good for two points against Tech's talented Titans. Vainly trying to stop Horton's shot is Gary Kennedy (53).

Coach Virgil Kirkpatrick gives last minute instructions to junior guard Larry Wetherald before sending him into the Homecoming game against the Arlington Golden Knights.

Warren's jumping John Woodburn (30) takes this rebound away from Southport's Bob Simpson during the Warriors 84-46 shellacking of the arch-rival Cardinals.





Forward Scoop Taylor lets go with a jump shot against Speedway. The southpaw scored some vital field goals in the Warrior's 62-61 conquest of the upset-minded Sparkplugs.

Warren Cagers Capture

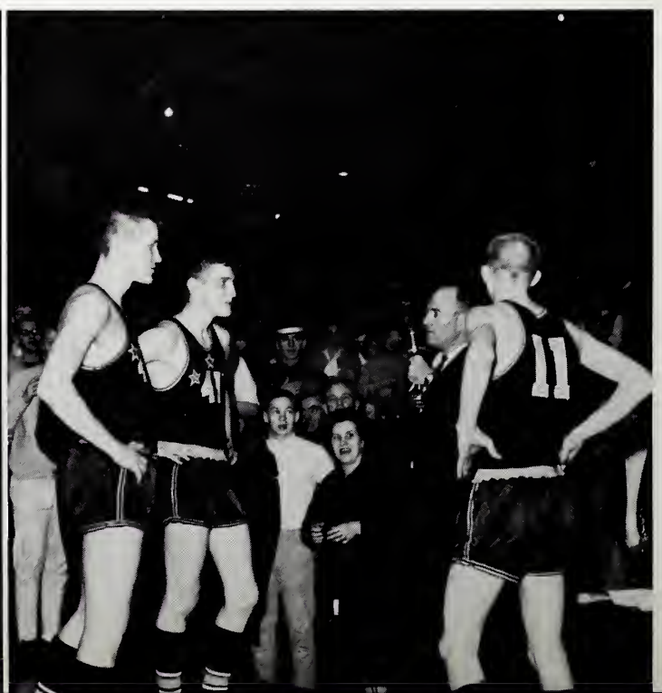
Warren Central's Warriors came through with their first Marion County championship in ten years this season in one of the most evenly matched events in history. In a tournament which featured upsets the Warriors defeated a determined Speedway team in the final game to bring home their fourth county trophy in the school's history of play.

Led by the deadly shooting and clever playmaking of Doug Wininger, the Warriors defeated the Sparkplugs in a 62-61 barnburner to claim the title. Speedway shot a sizzling .600 from the field to make it a close game all the way. The Plugs missed only 17 shots all evening, and the Warriors came down with those 17 defensive rebounds, thus denying Speedway any second shots. Warren hit only .380 from the field but converted 26 out of 31 from the free throw line, while Speedway had only 13 opportunities and connected on seven.

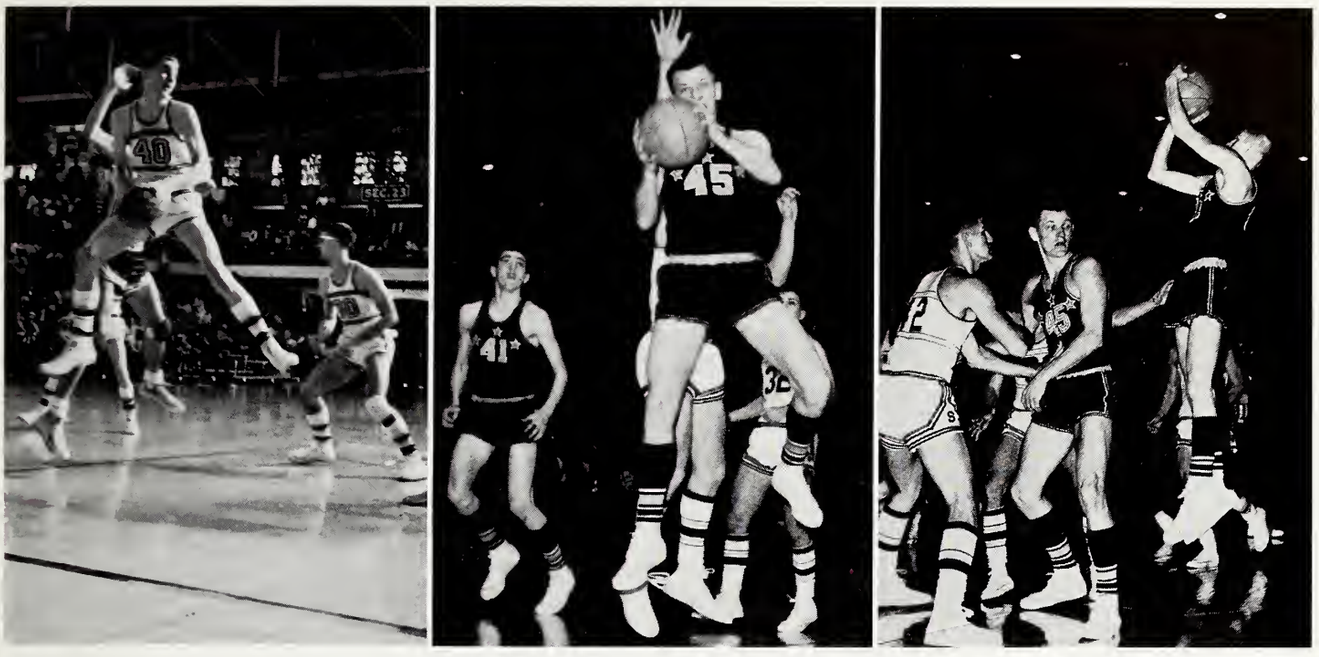
Wininger led the tribe with 25 points but had 21 point help from Gunars Janelsins, who played one of his finest all around games. The only other Warrior in double figures was foul-plagued Tom Sponcil with 11 points. Scoop Taylor played a fine game in relief, coming through with some vital baskets when they were needed.

The 1964 county champs pose with the dope box, trophy, and game ball, their newly acquired possessions, after the final game, which was a thriller as shown by the scoreboard.

Warren Central's three captains, Gunars Janelsins, Tom Sponcil, and Doug Wininger receive congratulations from the master of ceremonies before the presentation of the trophy.



County Tourney Title To End Ten-Year Drought



Senior forward Tom Sponcil goes high into the air to pick-off a rebound against Ben Davis in the semi-final round of the county tourney. All-county center Gunars Janelsins hauls in one of the 17 vital defensive rebounds in the finale against Speedway. Senior Doug Wininger sinks a jump shot from behind a screen set up by Janelsins in one of the thrill-packed tournament games.

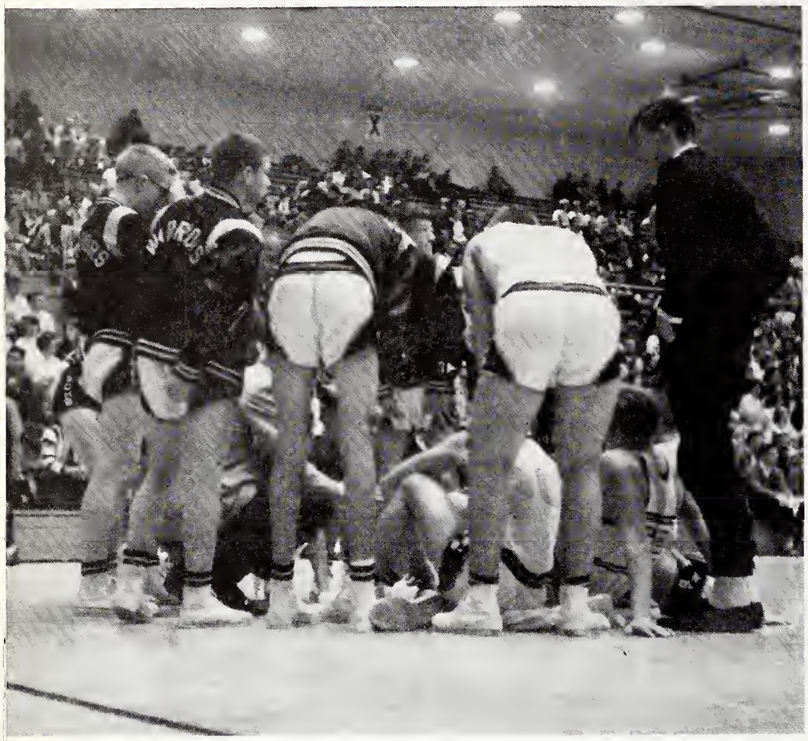
The Warriors repeated an early season victory over Lawrence Central by defeating the Bears 72-64 in first round action. This time, however, Warren found the going a little rougher than in their previous 20-point pasting of the Bears.

In Saturday afternoon action, the tribe trounced Ben Davis 67-52. This raised a few eyebrows, as well as some hopes. It was a close game in the first half, but Warren opened up in the third quarter and won going away to advance to the finale.

After the championship game, a bonfire ceremony was held in the school parking lot and a pep session followed in the gym, honoring the new county champs.

Warren Central placed three players on the all-county team: Doug Wininger, Gunars Janelsins, and Tom Sponcil, all seniors. Wininger led all tourney scorers with 80 points, including a string of 38 free throws. Sponcil and Janelsins both averaged in double figures and were towers of strength under the boards. But even with these outstanding individual performances, it took a great team effort to bring home all the "marbles" — a trophy, the net, game ball, and the dope box.

The expressions on these Warrenites' faces tell the story as many students and fans gathered at the school after the championship game to honor the newly-crowned county champs.



Reserve players try to get a little rest while receiving instructions from Coach Conwell in a huddle between quarters of the Warren-Arlington reserve game on the home court.

Senior Willett Fischer was probably the most improved player on the team as he came through with some real defensive gems. Southpaw Scoop Taylor was very effective as the sixth man and a spot starter. One of the keys to the Warriors success was their strong bench as Jim Horton, Larry Wetherald, and Jim Fuson turned in sparkling relief.

As a team the Warriors shot a respectable .397 from the field and were one of the best free-throw shooting teams around with a very fine .682 percentage from the charity stripe. The Warriors were also strong off the boards as they outrebounded their opponents 900-654.

The reserve team, under Coach Conwell, compiled a record of nine wins and nine losses. The Little Warriors had a 9-5 record before going into a slump and losing their last four. The scoring leader for the season was Ray Murphy with help from Mike Warren, Steve Cooper, and Chris Gioe. Warren was the top rebounder, and Gioe paced the team in free throws.

Coach Conwell tried many different starting combinations in looking for a consistent winner. Those who started throughout the season included Mike Rutheford, Jim Wallace, Bill Hopkins, and Jack Thacker. Others were Herb Jewell, Tom Limbach, John Cochrun, and Tim DeBruicker.

'Sunkist Rejects' Cop Senior League Title

Intramurals provided many upsets in all three leagues this year. One of the most dramatic was a 31-29 victory by the Sunkist Rejects over the Saints in the championship game of the senior league. The Rejects, who had lost only one game in regular season play to the Beachboy Bombers in an overtime, came from behind in the fourth quarter to defeat the Saints in the finale.

The Saints, who had also lost only once in regular season, ran past the Senior Stars in the first-round game by a 32-12 count to gain a berth in the final game, while the Rejects downed the Bombers 33-24. The Rejects, by winning the championship, earned the right to play the faculty in a game sponsored by the P-TA.

In the junior league the Jolly Green Giants, led by Kirby Cummings and Butch Monroe, found the going a little easier as they defeated the Studz, 25-17, in the final game of the junior playoffs. The Trojans, however, in the sophomore league, barely squeezed by the Fireballs with a 27-26 final game thriller that decided the title.

Kirby Cummings of the champion Jolly Green Giants takes aim on the basket as he prepares to shoot a free throw during the junior league intramural championship game.

A Trojan player, scores two important points in their 27-26 victory over the Fireballs to capture the sophomore intramural championship at the playoffs in February.

Inexperienced Wrestlers Find Going Rough

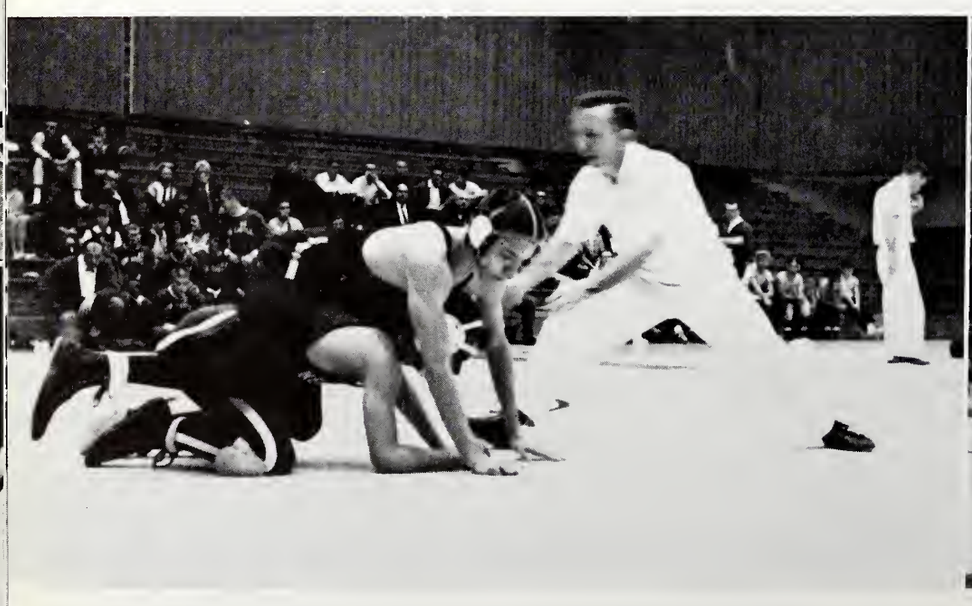
County and Sectional champ Jim Beckham works for a guillotine in this tournament action against an opponent from Scecina.

The Warren Central wrestling team found the going a little rough this year as they finished the season with a 2-9 dual meet record. However, many of the matches were close, and with a break here and there, the Warriors could have compiled a much better record. Another factor in the disappointing season was lack of experience. Many times the Warriors had as many as eight underclassmen wrestling in varsity matches. The experience gained by these grapplers should pay off within the next year or two.

While Warren will lose only six lettermen via graduation, there will be some big holes to fill next year. Among the missing will be 133-pounder Jim Beckham, who compiled a 7-1-1 record and was Warren's only individual champion in the Marion County tournament this year.

Others who will be sorely missed are 120-pounder Charlie Yotter, 127-pounder Joe Sylvester, and 145-pounder Mike Schulz. Yotter had a 6-3 individual record and placed third in the county tourney. Sylvester had a 4-5 record against some of the roughest competition around, including a 4-3 victory over state champ Jim Clouse of Franklin Central. Schulz compiled a 4-1-1 record before being sidelined by a mid-season injury.

Charlie Yotter, 120-pound senior, drives his opponent to the mat with a figure-four during the Warriors' match with New Castle on the tribe's home mats.



Senior Joe Sylvester, 127-pounder, works for a take-down against a Scecina opponent in the semi-final round of the sectional meet held at the Warren gymnasium.

Underclassmen wrestlers who showed much promise for next year were 103-pounder Mike German, 95-pounder Danny Stiko, and 138-pounder Bill Burgess. All are juniors. Other juniors who saw considerable action were heavyweight Bob Baker, whose season was cut short by a head injury received in the Howe Invitational, and 165-pounder Ron Breedon who was vastly improved at season's end.

Many sophomores saw varsity action, and while their individual records were not outstanding, they gained the experience which will be of great help in the long run. Among the sophomores who saw considerable varsity action were Mike Zaphiriou, Denny Wilhelm, Ted Short, Bill Reynolds, and Tom Winkel.

In the Marion County tourney, the Warriors placed fifth in team standings. Finishing above Warren was champion North Central, Southport, Franklin Central, and Lawrence Central. The grapplers were paced by county champ Jim Beckham. Other Warriors who placed were Mike German, second; Charlie Yotter, third; Bill Burgess, third; and Conrad Seniour, fourth.

For the second consecutive year Warren Central was host to a Sectional in the state tourney. The Warriors made a good showing and finished third in team standings. Beckham and Burgess were the only individual champs, but German and Sylvester finished second, Stiko, Wilhelm, Short, and Breeden placed third, and Reynolds placed fourth.

VARSITY WRESTLING TEAM—(Front Row) Danny Stiko, Mike German, Dennis Wilhelm, Charlie Yotter, Joe Sylvester, Jim Beckham; (Back Row) Conrad Seniour, Don Baker, Ron Breedon, Bill Reynolds, Ted Short, and Bill Burgess. Only six seniors will be lost by graduation, making prospects look good for next season.

Get-acquainted Barbecue Opens Year of Fun

G.A.A. officers Linda Crouch, Sharon Johnson, Pam Barth, and Linda Orrill look over the schedule for the upcoming softball games.

As the whistle blows, and the ball goes up, Karen Walker and Judy Waterman jump for that ever important first tip as another G.A.A. intramural game begins.

A girls' basketball team may never win a county tourney, but they may achieve recognition through the Girls' Athletic Association. This organization stimulates the co-curricular phase of the high school girls' physical education program. GAA sponsored by Mrs. Rosalind White, meets on specific afternoons after school. Depending upon the season and weather, they participate in tennis, archery, basketball, volleyball, bowling, softball, and gymnastics.

Early this year, GAA sponsored a "get-acquainted" barbecue. Afterwards, the girls enjoyed an old-fashioned hayride. The Warren chapter of GAA joined with three schools in volleyball and two in softball this year. They competed with Franklin and Lawrence in both sports and with Ben Davis in volleyball only.

Bowling "sports days" were held at Greenfield and Carmel. A sports day is an event in which several schools come together often playing more than one activity, and participating as a school team.

The final GAA activity was on May 9. On this night, members joined with their mothers at the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. Awards were given according to points earned from organized activity and achievement tests during the year.

Young Gymnasts Ring Up Best Season So Far

Though the 1963-64 season was only Warren's third year in interscholastic competition, the Warriors had one of the finest gymnastic squads in the state. The gymnasts compiled an 8-4 won and lost record en route to their best season yet. The only defeats were administered by Crown Point, Clarksville, and twice by Madison Heights. In the Warren Central Invitational, the Warriors placed third against state-wide competition. Coach Don Kassen was very optimistic about his young teams chances in the state meet held in March at Warren Central. He expected to place third if everyone was up to par.

The competitive events of a gymnastics meet are free exercise, trampoline, side horse, parallel bars, still rings, horizontal bar, and tumbling. Three members from each team participate in each event. Three judges evaluate each contestant on the basis of 109 points as a perfect score. A possible total of 50 points is awarded for form, and another 50 points for difficulty of stunt.

Junior Dwight Steele performs a very difficult back lever on the still rings during the Warren Central invitational.

Dwight Smith does a left vault as part of his routine on the side horse. Warren placed third in the Invitational meet here Jan. 25.

Warrior Nine Place Second in County Tourney

Warren Central's second sacker, Jim Pope, squares around to bunt during one of the Warrior's home games.

The Warren baseball team in 1963 recorded a four-won seven-lost mark in regular season competition. Head Coach Donald Foreman commented that the Warrior Nine was an average high school team; no one player was outstanding in his position. Although the team's season record was not as impressive as was hoped, all players contributed to the fine team spirit which urged the team on in the county tournament competition.

The Warriors won two preliminary games; the first was a resounding victory over the Beech Grove Hornets with Jim Cahill pitching and "Scoop" Taylor and Mike Marvel hitting home runs. Their second win against North Central was close. The Warriors won in extra innings by one run. Although Myron Hinderliter hit a home run, the Warriors lost to Southport in the championship game, 4-2.

Warren won two games with five run margins, beating Beech Grove 6-1 and Sacred Heart 5-0. Their other two victories were one-run wins over Ben Davis and Scecina. Warren's losses came at the hands of Manual, Howe, Washington, Carmel, Arlington, North Central, and Lawrence.

The '64 season promised to be better. All players will be returning with the exception of Jim Luther, Myron Hinderliter, Jim Pope, and Mike Marvel.

Cindermen Have Winning Ways in '63 Season

The 1963 track season was one of the most successful in Warren Central's recent history. Coach Dave Shaw's cindermen compiled a 7-1 won and lost record in dual and three-way meets, with the only loss coming at the hands of Manual's Redskins. The Warriors won seven straight meets before losing the finale to Manual.

In the Columbus Relays, Warren placed second against competition from all over the state. The team to place higher than the Warriors were Richmond's Red Devils who were one of the best teams in the state. The Tribe placed third in the county tourney, although they were hopeful of a higher position. Senior Bob Stacey finished first in the county meet in the 100-yard dash with a time of 10.4 seconds. He also was the county champion in the 220-yard dash, with sophomore John Woodburn running a close second. Two other Warrior cindermen won individual county titles. They were senior Marshall Burns in 440-yard dash and senior Bill Stacey, Bob's twin brother, in the broad jump.

During the regular season, Warren's 880-yard relay team set a new school record of 1:34.0 during the homecoming meet with Beech Grove. The members of the record-breaking team were Marshall Burns, Bob Stacey, Bill Stacey, and John Woodburn. Also, Bob Stacey's broad jump of 22 feet 4 inches during the early part of the season was for a time the longest jump in the state during the 1963 season.

Junior Ronnie Young flies high over the cross bar during the pole vaulting event. Rick Guyer waits to catch the pole.

Other team members who contributed to the Warriors' fine record were Jerry Abernathy in the shot-put, Steve Weber in the high jump, and Martin Fall in the hurdles.

Young Linksmen Compile 4-12 Season Record

The first state high school golf tournament in 1946 had twenty-five teams participating. Two years later, Warren Central organized its first golf team. Now, 15 years later, golf at W. C. is one of nine sports in which the Warriors participate.

The Warrior linksmen had their problems in dual meet competition. While playing four dual meets, in which they play two opponents at the same time, the Warriors were victorious over one of eight teams. They beat Tech by a score of 9-3.

However, in single team meets, the Warrior linksmen made a better showing. Playing seven teams during the season, the Warriors came out on top with wins over Greenfield and Franklin Central by identical scores of 9½ to 2½, and over Lawrence by a score of 7-5.

The '63 team was led by seniors Frank "Skip" King and Dave Haas. Dave's 81.3 average was the lowest individual average for the season. Skip, elected captain by his teammates, was awarded the Kiwanis Award as the most valuable player.

In the county meet, the Warriors finished sixth with a team total of 344. Sectional competition found the linksmen 16th in a field of 29 teams.

Dave Haas, senior letterman, watches closely as his long putt nears the hole on the No. 2 green.

Junior Doug Wininger takes a practice swing before making approach on the first hole at Pleasant Run.

Netmen Obtain Experience as Young Team

Dale Klein gets set for a return as John Hilkene completes a serve during one of their doubles matches.

Warren Central's tennis team completed the 1963 season with a record of four wins and nine losses. Coach Alan Miedema's racquetmen were victorious over Franklin Central, Scecina, Pike, and Ben Davis. In county competition the Warriors were beaten only by Southport, Lawrence Central, and North Central. Other defeats were inflicted by Howe, Park School, Manual, Anderson, Washington, and Arlington.

Junior John Hilkene's record of seven wins and six defeats was the top individual record on the varsity tennis squad. Hilkene was also elected captain of the team for the 1964 season by his teammates in an election held at the end of the season. Completing the varsity tennis squad were junior Dennis West, junior Dale Klein, sophomore Rich Hotz, and junior John Miller.

Coach Miedema was looking forward to a successful season in 1964 since all varsity players will be returning. In doubles play, the number one team of John Hilkene and Dale Klein compiled a record of four wins and nine losses against some of the best competition in the state.

Hamburgers, cokes, skirts, sweaters, charms, hair-spray, gasoline, and everything imaginable comprised Warriors' lists of "necessities." Since no one store can supply our demands, we invade practically every store in the area. By national averages, Warrenites spend about $684,000 yearly besides influencing parents' buying. Jobs in these same businesses require some of us to file an annual report with Uncle Sam.

Putting together a yearbook requires several procedures. Pictures must be cropped, negatives must be matched with the correct print, proofs have to be read, and the student body and faculty have to be "indexed." It kept the Wigwam staff busy.

From the Wigwam's Point of View

. . . Boy, are we relieved! The year was long and filled with hard work, but it was also fun and rewarding. We'll never forget the endless copy to measure, write, and rewrite . . . the pictures to take, identify, and crop . . . and the cutlines to squeeze in. At the first of the year it seemed impossible to make an entire yearbook; but after the final deadline and the excitemnt of distributing the book, the whole year seemed worthwhile.

The staff thanks Miss Dorothy Teal, our sponsor, for her patience in time of stress. Mr. Richard Brier of Associates Engraving Company did a wonderful job on our yearbook "dummy." His death in December created a vacancy, subsequently filled by Mr. Larry Wells who took his place helping us. Mr. Jack Bundy of the S. K. Smith Company is responsible for our terrific cover. Mr. David McConnell represents the Benton Review Publishing Company. These were our colleagues in publishing the Wigwam, 1964.

Newest staff member, Sharon Lesher, discusses advertising copy with Mike Meyer. Sharon missed our annual Wigwam skit, but she saw much of our staff operation as members counted student directory money, wrote copy for their sections, and typed.
